

CANTON POLICE CHIEF LENSEL FIRED BY MAYOR

Action by Mayor Comes on Eve of Chief's Return to Duty After Thirty Days' Suspension.

ROACH ATTACKS MELLETT PROBER

Prosecutor McClintock Is Accused by Roach of Delaying Hunt for Slayer of Canton Editor.

Canton, Ohio, August 23.—(AP)—Chief of Police S. A. Lenzel was dismissed tonight by Mayor S. M. Swartz. Lenzel was to have returned to duty tomorrow, after 30 days' suspension imposed July 24, when the mayor considered that the police inquiry into the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, had failed.

Lenzel has the right of appeal to the civil service commission, which was reconstructed today by the appointment by the mayor of two members to succeed Price Janson and John Burris, dismissed earlier in the day.

Among the charges made against Lenzel is one alleging that he "bunbled" the investigation into the Mellett murder by not pressing the inquiry in its early days. Mellett was shot at his garage door, supposedly by underworld gangsters, early on the morning of July 18. Lenzel was suspended eight days later.

Other charges against the chief are that he tolerated vice conditions and open bootlegging and that he had too intimate a contact with the underworld and its characters and permitted the members of his department to have such contacts.

It is understood that the chief will fight the allegation that he permitted the murder inquiry to be "bunbled" by attempting to show that Mellett's family interfered with the investigation immediately following the shooting.

Tactics of Prosecutor C. B. McClintock in handling the investigation into the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of The Canton Daily News, were assailed today by Joseph R. Roach, Chicago lawyer, brought here to investigate vice conditions.

Prosecution Delayed. In a long recital of McClintock's activities, Roach indicated that the prosecutor, who, under normal circumstances would carry the case to the Stark county grand jury Wednesday, by his actions has delayed the prosecution and has been a bar to the inquiry into an alleged liquor conspiracy, out of which the murder plot is presumed to have arisen.

Roach has insisted that McClintock is not competent to present the case to the grand jury and has indicated that he will not offer his evidence to the grand jury if it is handled by the prosecutor.

Expected arrests today on federal warrants as a result of the inquiries into the liquor and murder conspiracies were delayed, Assistant District Attorney Howell Leuck said, because of the prospect of new evidence.

One of the allegations made by Roach against McClintock is that the prosecutor's view that the apprehension of Patrick Eugene McDermott, "key man" in the murder solution, is absolutely essential to the prosecution of the case has had one tendency, and that is to make possible the escape both immediately and ultimately of the criminals engaged in this transaction.

Roach also censured McClintock for his alleged statement that the arrest of Louis Mazer, on a murder charge was a "blunder" and he accused the prosecutor of "blocking" the federal inquiry by calling two intended federal witnesses before the Stark county grand jury and thus "tipping them off" to the fact that they had become involved.

Make Every Dollar Do Its Duty

Every dollar you spend will do its full duty if you give it a chance; but don't overlook the fact that you have the last say in the matter.

The way to make your dollars do their full duty is to look for exceptional values at the very lowest prices. The place to look for those exceptional values and low prices is in Constitution advertisements.

There is no use wasting a forenoon or an afternoon going from store to store in an aimless search for bargains—just read the advertisements in this morning's Constitution. You will find just what you desire, and priced right; and you'll very likely find other bargains that interest you.

Offerings made in this morning's Constitution are the last for today's business, and you cannot find better prices until tomorrow.

TO LIE IN STATE

Sheik Died From Poison, Say Reports

Officials May Probe Rumor Valentino Died From Arsenic Dose.

BY GEORGE FRY. Copyright, 1926, by New York News. New York, August 23.—Rudolph Valentino, the man who brought happiness to the hearts of millions, is dead. The Great Director, who plays no favorites in screening the Scenario of Life, took him away today.

The Italian youth, whose popularity was far greater than that of any king, passed away in the Polytechnic hospital upon the bed in which he suffered for the last nine days.

In death there was no pain. For, almost six hours earlier, the actor had lapsed into coma. He died with a faint smile on his handsome face and a crucifix held pressed to his lips by the Rev. Edward F. Leonard, who administered the last rites of the Catholic church.

May Make Probe. And, concurrent with the news of his passing there flow along Broadway sinister reports that the idol of the screen came to his death by arsenical poisoning. Circumstantial stories told of both jealousy and revenge as the alleged motives, and Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora said that, if the facts as bandied about the White Way came to him officially he would begin an investigation to sift their verity.

Immediately upon the heels of the first circulation of the reports, Dr. W. B. Rawles, assistant house physician at the hospital, for himself and for all of the attending physicians, denied formally that Valentino had been poisoned. He said that no trace of poison had been found in the actor's body.

In the hurriedly repeated statements that flashed along Broadway, it was boldly stated that when Valentino was rushed to the hospital, supposedly with gastritis, he had really taken into his system the deadly drug that created the irritation that was present in his intestinal region.

To the four persons who were last known to be with him before he was stricken, there seemed to be no doubt.

Valentino Pictures Continue To Be Shown

New York, August 23.—(AP)—Although Rudolph Valentino is dead, his admirers are still to be able to see him on the silver screen. Hiram Abrams, president of United Artists corporation, which had the screen lover under contract, announced this afternoon that "The Son of the Sheik," the latest Valentino picture, will continue in circulation throughout the world.

This was considered an unusual procedure, in that motion picture producers have been known to say that they have found it impossible to show pictures featuring artists who have died. It has been said that audiences have shown an aversion to watching the apparently living actions of a person they knew in fact to be no longer living.

Mr. Abrams issued a statement in which he said that there are at present between 5,000 and 6,000 contracts for showing the new picture "signed by theater owners who will continue showing." He said that "The Eagle," the only other picture the screen sheik appeared in under the United Artists banner, will also continue to be shown.

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, August 23.—Rudolph Valentino is to lie in state in a Broadway mortician chapel, where all who care to come may view his remains.

In the "gold room" ornate with tapestries and gilded furniture, where have been placed the bodies of Oscar Hammerstein, Anna Held and other celebrities of the theatrical world on the occasion of their deaths, Valentino's body will lie pending final arrangements for burial.

Until the arrival of the actor's brother, Alberti Guglielmi, who is en route from Italy, plans for final disposition of the body are in abeyance.

It is thought probable that Valentino, who came to this country in 1913 from Italy, will be buried in the little village of Castellana, near Turin, where he was born 31 years ago.

Police Maintain Order. Around the undertaking parlors of Frank E. Campbell, on Broadway, to which Valentino's body was taken from the Polytechnic hospital, where he died at 12:10 p. m., a crowd of New Yorkers, most of them women, gathered during the afternoon, necessitating the calling out of police reserves.

Friends of the actor who penetrated the crush and entered the building all received the same information. No one was to be permitted to see the body, regardless of their personal or business affiliation, until Tuesday.

In the mortuary upstairs, the secret embalming process was under way, directed by W. H. Hull, formerly in charge of the disposition of bodies of those who died in the United States service in the Panama Canal zone.

Despite the ravages of the poison which took Valentino's life and which caused the actor's personal representative to announce at first that there would be no lying in state, Hull said that the embalming process would restore completely the star's features to the comeliness familiar to motion picture fans throughout the world.

Body Is "Re-Created." Using photographs of the actor, embalmers worked throughout the night, re-creating the Valentino who caused female hearts to flutter wherever his films flickered.

"The body will retain its restored state practically forever," Hull said.

When the work is completed, two funeral services will be held, one exclusively for friends of Valentino, the other public.

The star died peacefully, alone with three physicians. The only woman who had been with him towards the end was a nurse, who remained outside the sick room, sobbing, when the end came.

Even Ullman, who had not slept for four days and nights in his anxiety, had stood outside, saying: "I cannot stand it."

Septic endocarditis (poisoning of the heart wall) developed early Monday, and the physicians, Dr. Harold D. Gleeker, Dr. Paul E. Durham and Dr. G. Randolph Manning, shook their heads solemnly and announced they could do nothing for the patient.

In his last conscious moments, before dawn Monday, Valentino talked—of women, but, of "going fishing next month up in Maine." He

Average American Citizen Has 170 Slaves at His Call

Erastson, Ill., August 23.—Despite the death stroke which the civil war administered to bondage and servitude, every American citizen has 170 slaves at his beck and call, according to Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university.

Dr. Scott arrived at his conclusion by complicated computation extending over a year and based on the amount of energy produced by humans, horses, windmills, tractors, automobiles, locomotives, ships and other power units.

As a example of the "slave power" figures, the educator took the number of automobiles in the United States as 15,000,000 with an average of 25 horsepower each.

Finding the total horsepower to be 375,000,000, he divided the number by .04, the average horsepower of a human. The result was 9,375,000,000 or the total slave power of automobiles. Then, dividing this total by 120,000,000 the approximate number of Americans, he computes that each American possesses 78.12 slave power from the automobile alone.

He followed the same method in reducing other power units into "slave" power and found that the average citizen has at least 160.64 or nearly 170 "slaves." However, Dr. Scott said there were other forms of power for which no data was available and whose "slave" power was not included.

"Of course it is true," Dr. Scott said, "that of the 120,000,000 Americans not more than 50,000,000 actually take part as workers. Thus the average worker has approximately 290 'slaves' at his command."

U.S. TO PURCHASE BIG STATE TRACT

Friendly court proceedings to ratify acquisition of 35,000 additional acres in North Georgia.

Through friendly court proceedings to be instituted in federal court here during the next term, the United States government will purchase 35,000 acres of forest lands located in White, Lumpkin, Union and Towns counties to be used for forestry purposes, it was announced Monday by Robert M. Cook, assistant United States district attorney, who now is at work preparing legal papers in the case.

When consummated, this will be the largest land purchase ever made in Georgia and will give the government a large tract of timber lands located in the watershed of the Chattahoochee and Hiwassee rivers which will be used for protection of the headwaters of these two streams.

Virtually the entire tract of land is owned by the Smetworth Extract company, and it is understood the government has agreed with that company on a price to be paid for the land. Friendly court proceedings will be brought to ratify the deal. The extract company used the bark from certain kinds of trees in that section to obtain various acids.

Assistant District Attorney Cook said the largest previous deal of this nature involved purchase of 30,000 acres of land, consummated in 1911. This land also was purchased for forestry purposes.

The land in the latest purchase will be an extension of the Cherokee national forest reserve and will form a part of that reserve. This land can be used by the people for recreational purposes, but has not yet been designated as a national park by the government, although a movement to this end is under way.

With the new purchase, the government will own approximately 200,000 acres of land in Georgia. It also owns large tracts in North Carolina. The Nantahala national forest reserve extends from North Georgia through a portion of North Carolina.

Legal procedure will be instituted by Mr. Cook as soon as he prepares the papers, which he said will require more than 30 days.

SEVEN CONVICTED FOR ABDUCTION

Waycross, Ga., August 23.—(AP)—Seven men were convicted here today of mob violence in connection with the recent attack upon County Judge Henry Johnson, of Charlton county. Five of the defendants were sentenced to one year each in the penitentiary. A year's sentence or a $1,000 fine was imposed upon the other two.

Judge Johnson, seized at a store in Folkston after nightfall, was taken by a group of men in automobiles out on a country road. He escaped without injury when citizens in pursuing cars overtook the party.

The judge had been active in enforcement of the prohibition laws by inflicting sentences upon liquor selling offenders. His assailants were brought to trial upon his identification.

The men convicted today pleaded guilty. J. D. Hunter, W. H. Hughes, W. G. Brooks, S. A. Lucas and J. L. Aldridge received the prison sentences without alternative. John Stephens and J. G. Harrington were given the choice of a year in the penitentiary or the $1,000 fine.

122d Regiment Praised By High Regular Officers

High praise is paid the 122d infantry, Atlanta's own national guard regiment, in the field inspection report made after the regiment's recent encampment at Tybee island. The report is based on observations of instructors attached to the regiment and by high officers of the fourth corps area, of which Major General Johnson Hagood is commanding general.

Extracts from the reports have been circulated among officers and men of the regiment, being distributed at Monday night's regular drill period at the auditorium armory.

A number of officers' names are mentioned and the regiment in general is commended for its efficiency and training.

The report, in part, follows: The commanding officer, Colonel Charles H. Cox, has that combination of leadership and character necessary for command. He exercises these qualifications to a high degree of efficiency.

Major Gerald P. O'Keefe has demonstrated his marked ability as a battalion commander and as such deserves special mention. Captain E. P. Tuttle, commanding the service company, has displayed ability in commanding a unit of this nature.

Captain J. J. O'Leary, commanding the regimental headquarters company, has displayed exceptional ability in the organization and administration of his company. Having caused to be installed more than 40 telephones, wired the entire camp for electricity, and installed radio communication with all stations of importance. The operation of these conveniences began the first day of camp and operated uninterruptedly throughout the camp.

Captains W. E. Green, G. M. Sanders and M. E. Williamson, commanding companies D, H and M, respectively, are recent graduates of the N. G. college, infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga., and have demonstrated the beneficial results from this course by their ability as machine gun company commanders, and the confident manner in which they instruct in this special arm.

Although the 3rd battalion is assembled as a unit but once a year, being organized at separate stations, it is so efficiently commanded and the officer personnel is of such a high type that it compares more than favorably with the others and is due special mention.

The camp administration has been very efficiently handled under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., executive officer; Captain Frank Maloney, adjutant; Captain L. O. Mosley, plane and training officer; and Master Sergeant Hugh Miller, regimental sergeant major, 122d infantry.

Completion of the large oil painting depicting the city of Atlanta, from Brookwood station to Emory university, which is to be Atlanta's feature at the southern exposition planned for October 2 to 10 at Madison Square garden, New York, is expected within the next three weeks.

Wilbur G. Kurtz, well known Atlanta artist, was selected by the committee in charge of the Atlanta exhibit to paint the picture, which when completed will measure 7-25 feet. The committee is composed of Ivan Allen, William Candler, B. S. Barker and Fred Newell. The permanent resting place of the huge painting, following the New York exposition, will be the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

WITNESSES TELL ON MANLEY'S STATE

first of a series of indictments will be returned.

Judge Powell took the stand late Monday afternoon and testified to "strange actions" of Mr. Manley since 1922. The story of his relationship with the banker, who now faces a felony indictment in connection with the failure of the company, since early in 1922, when he first was employed by Manley, was told by Judge Powell.

Wife Testifies.
The day of testimony from Manley's wife, his physicians and Judge Powell tended to show that Mr. Manley has been mentally deranged for some time. Mrs. Manley testified that her husband had not been "mentally right" since 1914.

Asked by her attorneys why she had not applied for guardianship before, she replied that she would have become a pauper rather than turn her husband against her. Her testimony was given in a clear voice and practically every question asked was answered promptly. Her story was one of fear for the physical and mental condition for her husband for more than 10 years.

One of the sensational pieces of information gleaned from the mass of minute testimony thrown into the hearing was that Manley had threatened to kill three Atlanta men with his automobile. Both Mrs. Manley and Judge Powell testified on this point. Judge Powell also said that it was difficult for receivers to get the automobile away from Mr. Manley as he had his mind set on killing the three men with it.

According to Judge Powell's statement, he was first associated with Mr. Manley when his daughter was separated from her husband in Florida. Mr. Manley was at that time in the Piedmont sanitarium, and he was employed by Mrs. Manley as legal adviser. Later in the case, Mr. Manley regained his health enough to confer with him, Judge Powell said.

Merger Plan Association.
The next association he had with Manley, Judge Powell stated, was in connection with a plan of Manley's to consolidate all the banks of Macon into one unit, of which he would be head. Judge Powell said he counseled against this at the time and later the plan was abandoned.

The plan, he told the banker at the time, could not be accomplished legally, and later in a conference with L. R. Adams, vice president of the Bankers' Trust company, it was decided to drop the plan.

His next connection was more recently in connection with Manley's banking interests in Florida. He told of several trips to Florida and on one occasion, he said, Manley acted queerly all the way down. He did not carry any luggage and did not even have a comb and brush, Judge Powell testified.

"This was unusual for Mr. Manley," he said, "for he always dressed meticulously and I could not understand it. All he had with him was a bunch of papers, which he kept in his hand. He did not get out of that night, but after I retired, he sat up attempting to add a column of figures. I noticed him several times during the night and he was trying to add the column.

Expert With Figures.
"I had heard that Mr. Manley formerly was an expert in adding figures and I could not understand this, but I thought pressure of business might have confused him.

"One of the principal topics of his talk during that trip was of Mr. Anthony, state banking commissioner of Florida. He told of how Mr. Anthony was attempting to ruin him and had conspired to wreck him financially. He upbraided Mr. Anthony nearly the entire trip down there and I had expected that he would be opposed to any more Mr. Anthony would make when we arrived.

"We were then on our way to confer with Mr. Anthony in regard to some business affairs and I was surprised when we arrived and the conference began. Mr. Anthony could not suggest a single thing that Mr. Manley would do. He was completely presented by Mr. Anthony in that conference and he seemed to be on the friendly of terms with the Florida official."

Judge Powell then related other similar actions of Mr. Manley in regard to business affairs and later when the Bankers' Trust company went into receivership he told of threats Manley would make and later would forget. He also told of one occasion when he denied having any connection with the Farmers and Traders' bank and later when asked who was president of that bank, said that he was president.

Various deals with Miami and other Florida banks by Mr. Manley within recent months were told by Judge Powell, who said that he knew "Mr. Manley was pouring money into Florida banks."

He said that on one occasion he saw him losing $50,000 in one bank which he was ready to send to keep it from going into bankruptcy. The story of "as wild a conversation as I have ever heard of" was told by Judge Powell, who said that he was told by Judge Powell, which he said was between Carl Davis, attorney for the state banking department, and the banker, who was the office the night before the state courts appointed receivership for the Farmers and Traders bank and the Bankers' Trust company.

"I was called to Mr. Manley's office by his secretary about 6 o'clock in the afternoon," he said. "She said that Mr. Manley was very anxious to see me at once. I went down to the office with Mr. Smith (associate attorney for Mr. Manley) and he said that Mr. Manley was engaged in the wildest conversation I have ever heard between two men. Mr. Davis excused himself by saying that he had had no sleep for three nights."

The remainder of Judge Powell's testimony chiefly concerned actions of Manley since the receivership was appointed. He told of his idea of killing the three Atlanta men and also of plans to "keep up the fight" and reopen the chain of banks.

Mrs. W. D. Manley, wife of the banker, testified that he "has not been rational since 1914."

"He no longer believes in God or in the future," she said. "Since his most recent business troubles set in he has threatened to kill three Atlanta men with his automobile."

Testimony of Wife.
Mrs. Manley testified that on one occasion she obtained his release from a Washington, D. C., hospital where he had been placed by a railway conductor during a "spell." For weeks she would speak to him and members of his family, she said, and at times he would walk on the streets or hide in bushes clad only in night dress. "He would not speak to me," she said, "and during that time would not allow me nor other members of his family to go to see him."

He explained his presence at home one Sunday afternoon with the remark that someone at the sanitarium was going to poison him.

"Although I considered my husband to be mentally abnormal, I would have entrusted to his judgment all the money I had rather than have him against me."

Protected Husband.
At times when Mrs. Manley was questioned by attorneys about her husband's handling of financial matters for her she would reply to the effect that if she had possessed millions she would have become a pauper rather than let her husband know that she trusted him.

"I would have never told him that I didn't trust him," she replied firmly, "if he had lost every cent he had."

Practically every question asked Mrs. Manley was answered in a firm, clear voice and only at a few times did she hesitate in giving answers. She showed remarkable insight in the affairs of her husband but many transactions about which she was questioned, she declared that she knew nothing about.

One of these was about his immense holdings in Florida. She was asked by Attorney Davis if Mr. Manley had not made considerable money in Florida.

"I have been told and have read of the millions of dollars he made by investments in Florida but I have never seen any of it. I do know that he investigated several schemes down there but they proved to be only schemes and he did not tamper with them."

Interested in Stocks.
Mrs. Manley also was questioned about her husband's investing money for her, which she admitted he did. She also said that he was intensely interested in stocks and had invested some money for her in stocks. She stated that he never lost money in stocks and had never lost any of her money in playing the market.

"He usually won on stocks and I never knew of him to lose. It was the only subject that he would discuss. He would readily discuss the stock market at all times and he was usually well-versed in the progress of various stocks."

Concluding testimony given by Mrs. Manley was to the effect that her husband was born Mr. Columbus, the son of John Manley and that an uncle of his had been mentally deranged and was treated at a private hospital. A whimsical turn was given in her testimony when Mrs. Manley was asked if her husband was not regarded as an acute and fine business man and she replied, "I thought he was."

Manley also testified that Mr. Manley's business associates knew of his mental condition.

"Jealous Suspicions."
"Jealous suspicions" assumed by Mrs. Manley toward the nurse assigned to her husband at Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, in 1922, delayed improvement in Manley's condition during his treatment at the hospital for a supposed mental disorder. Dr. J. Edgar Paulin, noted Atlanta diagnostician, testified.

A letter to Dr. Paulin signed by Dr. Adolph Meyer, noted psychiatrist at Johns Hopkins, to whom Manley was sent by Dr. Paulin after Manley had undergone preliminary treatment at the Piedmont sanitarium in Atlanta, was read by the doctor.

On August 19, 1922, Dr. Paulin said, "Old Mental Trouble."

The physician gave a chronological history of his treatment of Manley's case, declaring that on February 13, 1922, he had made a note that Manley appeared confused mentally, and his impression was corroborated by Dr. Robert Harris, an interne at the hospital.

After consulting Mrs. Manley, Dr. Paulin continued, it was decided to send Manley to Johns Hopkins hospital, where he might become a patient of Dr. Adolph Meyer. A letter from Dr. Meyer stating that Manley was suffering from mental lapses, that his calculations were careless and that he resented his wife's suggestion that his trouble might be mental was read by the witness.

Pictures of Brain.
On cross-examination by former Governor Hugh M. Dorsey, Dr. Paulin declared that he was not a mental expert but that there were unmistakable signs that something had affected Manley's mind.

Barnes E. Sales, an X-ray specialist, was the next witness. He had made X-ray photographs of Manley's brain for Dr. W. Troy Bivings and displayed a number of plates of the X-ray photographs taken by a special machine to show the commission the photographs taken by X-ray was set up in the courtroom.

The photos, according to Sales, showed that in Manley's brain the grooves for the blood vessels were dilated on either side by intercalary spaces. He also stated that Manley was suffering from abnormal brain conditions.

Dr. White, a member of the commission, questioned the witness at length about the pictures.

On Verge of Stroke.
Dr. W. Troy Bivings testified of his treatment of Manley. "His symptoms indicated that he was suffering from some sort of brain lesion when I first saw him," Dr. Bivings said. He said the patient was very emotional, high-strung, and suffering from extremely high blood pressure. All of these things indicated that Manley was on the verge of a paralytic stroke, Dr. Bivings testified.

He said the symptoms indicated that Manley might be suffering from a stroke. In order to determine if this was true the doctor stated that he made a spinal puncture and examined the fluid. This examination proved entirely negative, he testified.

He further testified that Manley often lost control of his tongue muscles and that at times his memory was clouded.

On cross-examination he told Dr. Dorsey that he considered Manley of an extremely high mentality although he was not normal at all times. Questioned by Attorney Carl N. Davis, of the state banking department, Dr. Bivings testified that he did not believe that any man, knowing of his financial troubles and the trouble and sorrows that he had brought to others, could be himself either mentally or physically.

Cursing Insured Person.
Dr. Howard Bucknell, the next witness, testified that Mrs. Manley called him over the telephone one night and asked that he come to the residence at 1403 Peachtree street where he found Manley running up and down the porch cursing an imaginary person. When he spoke to Manley, the physician continued, Manley failed to recognize him.

At the conclusion of Dr. Bucknell's testimony the hearing was recessed at 1:03 o'clock to be resumed at 2 o'clock.

Application for guardianship was filed by Manley's son-in-law, J. M. McCollough, Jr., who alleged that the former bank head is now unable to transact legally any private affairs of a business nature. The claim was set out that Manley cannot even sign a receipt for his disability insurance, said to amount to more than $1,000 a month, because the insurers will not take his receipt.

The commission is composed of Dr. R. E. Stone and Dr. J. C. White, two widely-known physicians appointed by Judge Jeffries and Assistant Solicitor General John H. Hudson, representing the solicitor's office, as provided by law. Dr. Stone was formerly a member of the city council and Dr. White has served both in the council and in the state legislature.

Outline of Case.
An outline of the case to be presented by the petitioners was given at the outset of the hearing by Attorney Marion Smith. He said that the plaintiffs expected to prove that Manley's mind was in such a condition as to require a guardian and that it was not an attempt to protect Mr. Manley from any incriminating business transactions he may have made several years before.

Mr. Manley was examined by members of the commission in a private anteroom just after the hearing opened. Attorneys were barred from the examination and the three commissioners were accompanied by Dr. H. G. Allen, Sr., H. G. Allen, Jr., of Milledgeville, who have been treating Mr. Manley for the past several weeks, and Dr. Newdigate M. Owensby, on behalf of former Governor Hugh Dorsey.

Manley's condition was examined by members of the Georgia State bank and other banks.

Lawyer's Statement Protested.
Marion Smith, attorney for Manley, told the court that "only those who may have taken advantage of Manley's unsound mental faculties may fear the intervention of an insanity plea in any future litigation which may be brought."

The statement was protested by Hugh Dorsey, former governor, appearing in behalf of Georgia state banks and other banks.

Solicitor General John A. Bopkin, who protested against the guardianship hearing on the grounds that appointment of a guardian would be detrimental to "every creditor" will go before the Fulton county grand jury today to ask for "indictments of every person responsible in any way for the failure of the trust company."

"My, but it's good to get inside!"

Just to escape the heat—it's good to get inside—to say nothing of the marvelous entertainment we're providing right through the summer. It's always cool at the Howard because we manufacture our own weather. The theatre is literally flooded with ideal climate every day—climate such as you experience only on rare Spring days. What a relief—when you can't bear another minute of the heat that is everywhere indoors and out—to know there is one place in town where you can say "My, but it's good to get inside." Worth coming to just for that—to say nothing of the show!

THE REFRIGERATED
HOWARD

Big Shows all year 'round

The Howard is one of the nation-wide chain of Publix Theatres who offer the utmost in stage and screen entertainment all year 'round—entertainment on a scale so elaborate that no single theatre could afford it. With the resources of the Publix chain to draw on the Howard can present such features as the Publix Revue and the best in motion pictures, such as Paramount, every week and every week means right through the summer too.

Why it's "good to get inside"

After the air has been cooled, cleaned and dehumidified, a great fan forces it through metal ducts to the top of the theatre. From here it is distributed evenly to all parts of the theatre through openings in the ceiling, the air passing down over the audience so gently there is no sense of draught.

GEORGIA WOMAN SHOT IN DETROIT

Detroit, August 23.—(Special.)—While Patrolman Frank W. Reynolds is near death in the receiving hospital here and Michael J. Alexander is dead in the county morgue after a gun battle in the heart of the city Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Stella Jenkins, 28, who came to Detroit recently from her home in Andersonville, Ga., is in the hospital suffering from gunshot wounds in the hip and facing charges of assault with intent to kill.

The duel that ended the life of Alexander and will probably cause the death of the policeman, began when Reynolds attempted to arrest Alexander on a charge of driving an automobile while drunk. Facing arrest, Alexander drew a revolver and emptied it at the officer. Lying in a pool of his own blood in the road, Reynolds returned the fire, killing Alexander instantly.

A stray bullet struck Mrs. Jenkins, who was Alexander's companion on an afternoon ride.

When Alexander's car crashed into a jitney bus, Reynolds ordered him to stop. Instead the driver sped from the scene closely followed by the officer in a commandeered car. When overtaken, Alexander resisted arrest. Though Mrs. Jenkins is under guard at the receiving hospital, it is expected she will be released when she is well enough to leave the hospital. The life of the policeman is despaired of.

BODY OF VALENTINO WILL LIE IN STATE

did not know, as he lapsed into unconsciousness at 6 a. m., that he was to die.

"Don't Worry," said Rudy.

The only other friend to exchange a word with Valentino since his critical relapse Sunday night was Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of directors of the United Artists.

"Don't worry, chief," the dying actor whispered to Schenck. "I'll be all right."

The film magnate was also outside the sickroom when the doctors announced that Valentino was dead.

Without a woman's comfort, save as this was conveyed to him by messages from his former wives, Jean Acker and Winifred Hudnut, from his fiancée, Pola Negri, and from thousands upon thousands of women admirers, the star lapsed into unconsciousness with a crucifix at his lips.

Just before his eyes closed for the last time, Valentino murmured to Dr. Meeker:

"Do you know what gives me the most courage, doctor?"

"What is it?" asked the physician.

"It's knowing that you and I are going fishing up in Maine next month."

There was no mention of any woman in the actor's last lucid conversations, but after he lost consciousness, Valentino became delirious and babbled incoherently in Italian.

Last Rites Given.

The priest who held the crucifix to his lips a few hours before the end was the Rev. Father Edward F. Lennon, rector of St. Malachi's, known as the "actors' church." Extreme unction was administered Sunday by the Rev. Father Congedo, a priest who was born in Castellano, Valentino's birthplace.

"Valentino died peacefully," Dr. Meeker announced. "He didn't know he was going. He was overcome by poisoning brought on by septic pneumonia and septic endocarditis. The poison which entered his system following an operation for appendicitis and gastric ulcer eight days ago had crept up and attacked first his lungs and then his heart, in spite of everything that could be done."

"Valentino had been suffering for two months from stomach trouble. If he had consulted a doctor when he first began to be ill he might have saved his life. But instead he practically ate bicarbonate of soda for six weeks and put his trouble down to a little indigestion." When his condition became so grave that he fell unconscious, it was too late.

Around the Polyclinic hospital at the hour of noon approached a throng gathered, awaiting the latest bulletins from Valentino's bedside.

New York City, for one example, displayed great interest in the film actor's dying than would have been the case had the patient been almost any other prominent public personage.

When the appearance of a hearse at a side door of the hospital early in the afternoon indicated that Valentino's remains were to be removed to the undertaking parlors, "word of his death had spread and the throng numbered thousands. Traffic was blocked. The sidewalks could not contain the jostling, clamoring women, girls and men, and police reserves struggled vainly to clear the streets for motor traffic.

Later in the afternoon, similar scenes were enacted in front of the Broadway undertaking parlors.

Florists' messengers elbowed their way through the throng. A few friends of the dead actor made their way to the door, only to be told that Valentino was to be carefully sheltered in death even from those closest to him until his personal representative, Ullman, made his wishes known.

Ullman retired to his suite at the Ambassador hotel to rest under the orders of a physician.

Schenck, in his offices at the headquarters of the United Artists, with which Valentino was associated, issued the following statement on behalf of himself and Hiram Abrams, president of the corporation:

"We are grieved and shocked at the great loss. Everyone hoped for the best, especially since the boy had waged so brave a fight against huge odds."

"The loss is a great one to us personally because he was our friend, and surely a real blow to the motion picture industry, in which he stood so high."

Then Schenck took off his glasses, wiped his eyes, and talked informally about the "rascal" until his lips were numb.

"Real" Valentino.

"I knew Rudy for eight years," said the United Artists chairman. "He was one of our greatest artists, one of the highest paid of all. His salary was $200,000 for each picture, plus 25 per cent of the profits from the film. He made about $800,000 to $1,000,000 a year from his film work."

"Naturally, the loss is a great one to us. But right now I'm not thinking about that."

"He was a sentimental," he insisted. "Next week, perhaps, I will look at the loss from a business point of view, and figure up what Rudy's death cost us. But now it is too close to miss the boy. He was a great boy. Educated, cultured, spoke four or five languages, and always a gentle spirit. It will be greatly missed."

It was Schenck who settled as definitely as seems possible the question of Valentino's burial.

"He was born in Italy 31 years ago, of good parents," said the magnate. "His mother was French, the daughter of a noted Paris doctor. His father was a cavalry officer, who later became a veterinary doctor. He was well educated, for he spoke several languages, although he didn't know English when he came here in 1913."

"The boy was romantically inclined. He read novels and didn't care much about stunts, although he took high honors at the Royal Academy of Agriculture in Rome."

Of the film star's last days, Ullman had the following to say, although the press agent's voice was choked with tears:

Cheered in Last Hours.

"Mr. Valentino was greatly cheered during his last days by the thousands of messages sent him by his friends and motion picture admirers and while he was too weak to read all of them, it was a great comfort to him to know that so many friends were interested and sympathetic."

"I know he would want me to express the gratitude," he felt.

Ullman conferred with Frank E. Campbell, the mortician into whose charge the remains of the actor were given shortly before 3 p. m.

"As I understand it," Campbell said afterwards, "Mr. Ullman feels that Valentino, like every great artist, belongs to his public. It has been decided, therefore, that unless his brother objects, the body will lie in state where it may be viewed by any who care to come."

The "gold room," where famous figures of the theatrical world have lain in state, is a low-ceilinged room on the fifth floor of the building. The walls are draped with tapestries, and the furniture is gilded, while huge vases and ornate braziers line the walls and a gilded piano stands in one corner, opposite the spot arranged for a dias on which the flower-banked casket is to be placed.

Private Services.

Because of the location of the "gold room" and its small size, it will be used only for private services in connection with Valentino's death. When the lying in state begins, the casket will have been placed in a chapel on the street level, so that any who wish—and preparations are being made to accommodate thousands—can file past and look for a last time upon the famous actor's features.

Valentino made millions from his screen work and allied interests but the extent of his fortune at the time of his death was unknown to Schenck, Abrams and those who directed the industry in which the actor succeeded. Ullman said he might announce something on the subject later.

Stories of fabulous sums in life insurance taken out upon Valentino's life were corrected by Schenck, who said that the United Artists held a $250,000 policy.

"This was to protect us during the making of any one picture," he explained.

plained. "It is customary in the case of prominent stars."

Schenck was asked how many women went to see each of Valentino's pictures since he became the famous "shock" of the films.

"While this would seem a stupendous mathematical task the head of the United Artists answered immediately: 'About 12,000,000 women in the United States and Canada see each picture.'"

An elaborate system of calculating attendance by gross receipts gave the magnate his answer.

While Valentino thus played at least twice a year to some 12,000,000 female admirers three women stood out most prominently in his life. They were Jean Acker, his first wife; Winifred Hudnut, his second, and Pola Negri, who had planned to be his third.

Of the trio Miss Hudnut was in Paris and Miss Negri in Los Angeles when the end came.

Jean Acker was in New York. There were hourly rumors that she was going to the hospital as Valentino was dying, that she was with him at the hour of his death and that she sought to view his features at the mortuary after the day.

All the rumors were without foundation. Like all the other women in Valentino's life Miss Acker was absent at the end.

HAD PREMONITION OF DEATH, SAYS FRIEND.

Los Angeles, Cal., August 23.—(AP) Rudolph Valentino had a premonition of an early death and welcomed it in preference to living to a decreed old age, it was revealed here today by John W. Considine, producer of his pictures.

Considine said: "Valentino several times remarked to me, 'I shall die young. I know it, and I shall not be sorry. I would hate to live to be an old man.'"

"Valentino's prophecy has been fulfilled, but it has been a terrific blow to his friends. I found Rudolph a man of great courage and unquenchable spirit. He will be greatly missed."

2 Suspects Lose Fights for Bail In Choir Mystery

Newark, N. J., August 23.—(AP)—Willie Stevens and Henry B. La Bryere Carpenter, held in Somerset county jail at Somerville on charges that they murdered the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills to destroy their first move for release on bail.

Chief Justice William S. Gummere of the supreme court, before whom the appeal was made, pointed out that the motion should be made before Justice Charles W. Parker, whose circuit includes Somerset county, scene of the murders and where the prisoners were held last night, committed without bail for the grand jury.

Robert H. Carter, chief of the defense counsel, made efforts to communicate with Justice Parker in Northeast Harbor, Maine. The justice could not be reached personally on the long distance telephone, it was said at McCarter's office, and a reply was not expected before Tuesday morning.

Justice Parker is spending his vacation in Maine. He had advised Justice Gummere, following the latter's action in releasing Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, also charged with the double murder, in $15,000 bail, that he desired to act personally on any further motions and that he would curtail his vacation if necessary.

Investigators working on the mystery in Somerville, under the direction of State Senator Alexander Simpson, prosecutor, today continued their examination of witnesses and tracing of clues with unabated vigor.

Parts of a diary found in Washington, which now is in the hands of detectives, was considered a fake. Although the diary contained entries supposed to have been made between August 4, 1922, and October 23, 1922, one page showed unmistakable efforts of the writer to change "1922" to "1923."

Under date of September 18, 1922, the diary mentioned "the pig woman." This was before Mrs. Jane Gibson—called the pig woman because she conducts a hog farm—had been called as a witness and before the sobriquet had been applied to her by reporters.

Pola Negri Grief-Stricken Over Death of Valentino

BY DON CAMPBELL.

Holly wood, Calif., August 23.—The condition of Pola Negri was so alarming Monday night, because of Rudolph Valentino's death in New York, her friends said she would have to retire indefinitely from the headliner. The entire colony shared the Polish star's grief. All studio flags were lowered to half mast, and on the lots of the United Artists where Valentino became a shock, and the Famous Players-Lasky where Pola, his reported fiancée, had been working, production was halted as a tribute to the actor's memory.

Brilliant stars and humble extra girls, many of whom had worked with Valentino and all of whom had aspired to his position, wept openly when the learned Rudy had lost his fight for life. Several of the more prominent players issued statements paying tribute to his friendship and his artistic ability.

When Pola Negri was informed at her Ambassador hotel suite, of the shock's death, she fainted. Not until late afternoon could she be removed to the home of a friend where physicians and nurses were in constant attendance. The actress had hoped to fly to Valentino's bedside by airplane after completing a picture on which she was working overseas.

London, August 23.—Women sobbed in the theaters of London Monday when the death of Rudolph Valentino, in New York, was announced from every stage.

Flappers who long had been ardent Valentino fans sorrowed with the women of America over the loss of the screen shock. When the news of his passing reached London it was relayed quickly to other parts of Europe.

"He was a great artist," said the Daily Express in commenting on Valentino's death. "He possessed, more than any of his contemporaries, that genius that lies in simplicity and self restraint. He leaves the movies permanently enriched by the technique he evolved by playing parts which he himself so profoundly despised."

Rome, August 23.—The death of Rudolph Valentino is mourned in movie circles here, although his popularity with the masses of Italians had not reached the heights that it did in England and France.

Valentino suffered from the displeasure he incurred in his native land when he renounced Italian citizenship and became an American. His most popular work in Italy was that done in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," as this film had a patriotic appeal. "The shock" was judged a great production, but lacked the spontaneous appeal to the Italian audience that Valentino's first great success possessed.

FRIEND TO SETTLE VALENTINO ESTATE.

Chicago, August 23.—Assistant State's Attorney Michael A. Romano, a fellow countryman and close personal friend of Rudolph Valentino, has started to administer the dead film star's estate. Romano was summoned by George Ullman, Valentino's manager.

SHEIK DIED FROM POISON, SAYS REPORT

possible cause for such a report. None had seen or heard anything to suggest such a state of affairs.

Honor Guard at Party.

Valentino started his last pilgrimage to the hospital from an apartment of Barclay Warburton, Jr., where a party was given in honor of the actor.

There were 16 persons present when the festivities began at 10 o'clock Saturday night, nine days after the actor's death. The guests departed in little pairs, until only Valentino and some four others remained.

And at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning of his friend Valentino's sudden death, the guests of the party exhibited signs of violent illness.

Dr. Paul Durham was summoned and a private ambulance took Mr. Valentino to Polytechnic hospital. The slip on file did not state the place from which the ambulance started.

Dr. Harold Meeker performed an emergency surgical operation Sunday, after a conference with two other doctors that lasted for several hours. But the early reports of the physicians did not contain any definite statement concerning the character of Valentino's ailment.

Leading physicians said today that a state of violent irritation, such as was evident in the premises, might have been produced by arsenic.

But in considering the possibilities of the case, the medical authorities had the opinion that, even if arsenic had been present, it would be difficult to detect after a week because of the rapid action of the poison.

Some other authorities, however, held that certain crystalline formations would be present in the vital organs that would disclose the poison, if they existed. The text books on the subject lay down the elementary symptoms of arsenical poisoning as a burning in the abdomen, violent vomiting, dryness of the mouth, intense thirst and intestinal irritation.

First Aid Treatment.

First aid treatment calls for emptying the stomach, using two tablespoons of hydrated sesquioxide of iron and milk, oil or mucilage. There was no question as to the fact that some of the symptoms were present when the actor left the scene, was taken to the hospital. Authorities said today that arsenic of itself might also have caused a perforation of gastric ulcers.

It was not possible to get a statement tonight from the attending physicians, directly, since all of them, worn out from their long vigil at the bedside, had retired, leaving orders that they were not to be disturbed.

At her home tonight Miss Pearl Frank, one of the four trained nurses who had been in constant attendance on Valentino, declared that at no time was there any indication that the screen sheik had been poisoned.

No medicine was administered so far as Miss Frank knows that would serve as a counteractant.

"There is absolutely nothing to the poison story," said Miss Frank.

An atmosphere of secrecy, however, marked the treatment of the star. The first bulletin concerning his condition came not from the attending physician, but from the representative of Valentino. That came on Monday.

Reporters insisted upon something more authentic. In response to their insistence the physicians issued a bulletin simply stating that an operation had been performed.

It was not until Thursday that Dr. Harold Meeker made public the fact that the operation had been for the purpose of removing the appendix and treating a perforated ulcer.

In the meantime no one had been admitted to the patient's room. On Sunday, after a priest had been called to administer the last rites, Joseph M. Schenck, the moving picture magnate, was permitted to visit Valentino.

No Kin at Bedside.

With him in his hour of death were no relatives and no kinfolk. At his bedside were the three doctors who had been attending him since his operation on August 16—Dr. Meeker, Dr. Durham and Dr. G. Randolph Manning—three nurses and the priest, Father Leonard.

Throughout the night and early morning bulletins were issued which showed the end was not far off. The doctors, so hopeful during the week of illness, were beginning to despair. Only Valentino did not know how close he was to the end.

At 3:30 a. m. the actor became restless. He tossed from side to side. His temperature was rising, but, in spite of this Valentino was not giving in.

Just before they gave him his last injection of morphine he called out to Dr. Meeker.

"Doctor," he said, "I'm looking forward to something."

"What is it?" inquired the doctor.

"Our fishing trip together next month," was the reply.

"But all my rods are in California. I hope you have plenty."

DECATUR TRAFFIC VIOLATORS GIVEN SURPRISE MONDAY

Scores of autoists scheduled to face the city recorder of Decatur on charges of violating various traffic laws were given a surprise Monday night when orders were issued that all cases be dismissed "with a warning that in future Decatur will enforce its traffic laws."

Officials of the city explained the action by saying that for some time city fathers have disregarded traffic laws, especially the boulevard stop ordinance. In most instances cases were made and dates set for trial. It was these cases that were dismissed Monday.

Decatur city officials emphasized, however, that henceforth all violators will be given trials and that Monday night's action was merely to be able to begin law enforcement in Decatur with a "clean slate."

BURGARS ACTIVE MONDAY MORNING

After several days of inactivity, burglars again got busy in the city before dawn Monday morning and several hundred dollars worth of property was stolen, according to police reports.

The Dinkins-Davidson Hardware company, on Central avenue, reported the loss of a large quantity of expensive razors, knives, watches, hatchets and other articles early Monday morning.

Burglars jammed a window at the Pan-American filling station at the corner of East Ellis street and Peachtree street, Monday morning and rifled the cash register of $55.85, according to police reports.

Three Children Badly Poisoned By Jimson Weed

Three small children, Howard, age 3, and Dewey Hedrick, age 18 months, of Egan Park, and Marjorie Thompson, 3, of Chattahoochee, Tenn., a cousin of the Hedrick children, were treated at Grady hospital late Monday afternoon for ginseng-weed poisoning. They had eaten the weed while playing "housekeeping" in Egan Park Monday afternoon.

Doctors stated that it was the first case of ginseng-weed poisoning ever to be treated at the hospital, and the condition of Dewey Hedrick, youngest of the trio, is said to be critical. They were rushed to the hospital in the private ambulance of A. C. Hemperley, of East Point.

According to information given doctors, the children had their playhouse all fixed with the exception of the "cups." Howard and Marjorie went to get something for the table. They returned with a handful of ginseng weed buds and after picking the "stickers" off the buds, cracked them open; the seeds were placed in each of the three plates, and the dinner was served.

Within a few minutes the children went into convulsions and were promptly rushed to the hospital.

According to police reports, Binder's art and picture framing shop at 117 Peachtree street was entered by burglars Monday morning and $6.50 in cash, a string of pearls and a lady's compact were stolen.

THE VALUE OF KNOWLEDGE
—Israel served the Lord all the days of his life, and all the days of the elders that overtook him, and he was the first of the Lord, that He had done for Israel.

“CONNECTED HIGHWAYS.”
The address of Chairman John N. Holder, of the Georgia highway board, at the Appalachian celebration in Murphy, N. C., Saturday, hinged almost entirely on the value of connected, through-state and interstate highways.

Through, connected, highways of a dependable, all-year surface, is the answer to Georgia's road problem. It is highly gratifying that Chairman Holder takes that view, as so clearly and forcefully brought out in his Murphy address.

As to the method of financing a state system of paved highways, there being two schools of thought, it is obvious to everybody that nothing can be constructively done toward capitalizing the motor taxes for another four years at best. An amendment cannot be submitted until the legislature meets in 1927.

It is The Constitution's views, long and vigorously and consistently expressed. As to the method of financing a state system of paved highways, there being two schools of thought, it is obvious to everybody that nothing can be constructively done toward capitalizing the motor taxes for another four years at best.

Of course all of the across the state highways, from east to west and from north to south, cannot be connected up in the next three or four years, but when one route is undertaken it should be connected through before the job is completed, as Chairman Holder suggested so aptly and commendably at Murphy.

The point is—the only efficient paved state highway from border to border. That does not mean except five miles here or two miles there. It means “connected,” and this means that if the chairman is authorized to speak for his associates the state is not longer to operate on the checkerboard system of highways, with one county well paved, the next a mud bog, and so on across the state in any direction.

without regard to the bond issue solution, which must and will come in time but which cannot be of service in the next few years. What the people want is a system of across the state highways now, and without waiting even four years for them.

DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT.
Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, lived to be 92 years of age, and remained active and useful almost to the day of his death.

It is doubtful if any American citizen has taken a higher place in the development of American character, for his ideals always reached the topmost standard. And yet he was entirely free from the fanatical and extremes that too often create a spirit of pedagogism that is more altruistic than practical.

Along with Chaucer, M. Depey, with whose public life he had been contemporaneous for almost four score years, Dr. Eliot was one of the most noted speakers—and especially after-dinner orators—in this country. He was a warm friend, of the late President Wilson, though many years his senior, and until the end a warm friend and collaborator with Elihu Root, Dr. Wendell Holmes and other great Americans.

It is rarely that one is spared to a full measure of usefulness for so long a time. By the inevitable law of nature he had to go, but it is comforting that the “grand old man of Harvard” has left such a rich treasure to posterity.

GEORGE H. BOYNTON.
The death of George H. Boynton, son of a pioneer who had been a factor in Atlanta's business world for many years before he died, and himself one of the most outstanding city developers of the present generation, will carry deep sorrow to a host of friends and business associates in Atlanta.

His father had been one of the founders of the present great Chamberlain-Johnson-DuBois company. George H. Boynton was a man of wide usefulness. He was an unselfish citizen who loved the city, rejoiced at its progress, and in his own patriotic efforts to that end, he was active in church work, and was a good husband and father. He will be sorely missed and in his death Atlanta loses one of its best citizens, and a loyal and useful exponent of every good and worthy cause.

RUDOLPH VALENTINO.
The world loves a lover—whether on or off the stage. It gave more than passing affection to Rudolph Valentino, screen star, because he was as ardent a lover as he was an actor.

That he was called the “sheik” was no discredit, nor was it any attempt to fasten him to unseasonable love affairs in life. He was handsome, versatile, gallant and, with the Latin enthusiasm and emotion, made a perfect sheik in the pictures.

Thus the appellation that stuck to his name with unfaltering allegiance. In personal life he was regarded as a young man of high ideals, a real passion for art, a hard worker, and a really great talent.

Just From Georgia
LIGHTS OF NEW YORK
BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

New York, August 23.—Went to a party at Will Beebe's, the famous scientist. Stored in his laboratory and study are evidences and essences of the amazing facts he has turned up by painstaking labor on ocean beds and in jungles. There are countless bottles, bones and bodies. The latter, however, are carefully preserved in alcohol, and are at present mostly fish from the Sargasso sea, the Hudson gorge and the Galapagos shallows, some of them no larger than one's smallest finger nail. It must be a terrible place to clean. Yet some unassuming negro woman keeps it shining.

Among the guests was a gray-haired Englishman with the face of a British statesman (not politician) and the smile of a charming juvenile (say Glenn Hunter). He taught my wife how to make it look as if she had pulled off the third finger of her left hand, when, of course, she hadn't. His name was Mark Barr and he is the world's foremost authority upon deep sea diving.

Unhappily New Yorkers are harder to find than untattooed seafarers. Men, eminent persons with Park avenue addresses consult their horoscopes before turning a hand in important deals. Persons who are not eminent and who do not have such desirable street numbers follow suit. Naturally, the latter consult a different set of seers and seeresses. For the best ones, notably the great Evangeline, are not to be approached lightly.

A communicative hairdresser in a smart Fifty-seventh street shop unburdened herself yesterday while warning some tresses that are the property of my wife.

“Yes, dearie,” ran her unbalanced. “I mean really he was just wonderful. I mean really he was just wonderful. He told me I had to work in this one, because my hair was so long, and I had to have it cut. It was simply irresistible! Simply, dearie, it was too exciting. He told me all about it. . . . And now I have to pay for it by putting in impermanents 8 and 10 hours a day.”

After reaffirming that the woman always pays, if not in one life, then in another.

Like breath of scorn to gentle maid, Ye shiver 'neath the sun's bold stare, Though short your span of life yet still, Ye are so fair, so fair!

Old-Fashioned Curly.
The editor of The Adams (Ga.) Enterprise, says he knows five lovely girls that haven't bobbed their hair. “And this is a going away party,” he says. The Brown County (Ind.) Democrat says there's one in that county, of whom he writes—

“A young lady with beautiful curls attracted the eye and received much favorable comment at the Sunday school meeting here Sunday. It was something unusual in this day of single and bob, but we made no effort to get her name. This is enough to know that her curls were far more beautiful to look upon than any bobbed head we ever saw.”

When it comes to the swimming business, that English Channel swimmer, “The Old Swimmer” who is at home—the small boys' delight, and the old boys' dream.

Words of Br'er Williams.
Man has changed the world considerably since God made it, but heaven's still above it, and hell's in the same old place.

“Brown On Ice Now.”
(From The Macon Telegraph.)
The retirement of Charles E. Stewart from the race for commissioner of agriculture will have only the effect of making more overhanging. I envision the defeat of Caldwell and will administer to Brown. Stewart was anti-Brown, in fact, he was one of the original opponents of the machine.

As matters stand now, the commissioner of agriculture is the worst beaten man in any of the dozen contested state house or judiciary offices. Even before Stewart retired, Caldwell had won the victory, had won the election overwhelmingly. Even had Stewart stayed in, Caldwell would have gone to a tremendous majority over both opposing candidates in the fall election.

Mr. Brown's fall is the fall of the vainglorious and puffed-up man, the man who takes obligations to the people upon him and converts them into power for himself. Mr. Brown boasted—imagine that in a democracy—that he controlled the legislature, elected by the people, arrogated to himself the dictatorship of state's affairs. He became bloated by feeding upon some strange sort of meat.

Any number of quotations might be applied to him now as, for instance, “the last shall be first and the first shall be last,” or “how are the mighty fallen!” or “the mountains are laid low.”

It is dangerous for a man of extraordinary ability to attempt to play a high hand in a free government, but it is absolutely ruinous when a man of only mediocre ability attempts it—ruinous to the government, if the people allow him to continue, and ruinous to the man. Mr. Brown has been stopped. All that remains for the people to do is to strip him of his power formally and officially.

The people of Georgia will have done no better by themselves in a score of years.

J. O. WOOD OPENS OFFICES IN SAVANNAH
Savannah, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Headquarters for southeast Georgia have been opened in Savannah by J. O. Wood, candidate for governor. Mr. Wood is expected to arrive here from Atlanta some time during Tuesday and will direct an active campaign from this city.

His headquarters here will be in the law office of Anderson Ulmer.

Looking and Listening
BY SAM W. SMALL.

The statement that General Andrews will remain as assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement is a most interesting news item. It is well known that before he went abroad recently he had fully determined to resign and enter private pursuits.

That a movement of Andrews to resign and enter private pursuits by both the drys and wets to make one of the chief favorites his successor, Secretary Mellon, at once seemed probable.

It has as constantly decried Commissioner Blair and charged him with being in sympathy with “wet nullifiers of the prohibition laws.” It made threats of political reprisals when it was reported that Prohibition Commissioner Roy Haynes, of the Ohio, was to be let out, but the league's tactics have hindered, rather than helped, prohibition enforcement.

Andrews Person Non Grata.
The league has never had any favorable opinion of General Andrews. Because he had never affiliated with it and because the leaders of the wets approved his appointment as “prohibition czar,” the league leaders have looked upon him as “a wet” and have sought to believe that he is seeking to honesty get the best possible prohibition results.

General Andrews, after getting on the job, soon discovered that the wets were not so easily won over. He found that the radical enforcement demanded by the Anti-Saloon league is, and always will be, absolutely impossible. The facilities for moonshining, home-brewing, smuggling, rum-running and bootlegging are so universal from ocean to ocean, and lakes to gulfs, that it would demand an army of officials equal to one-tenth of the population to keep the other nine-tenths shut on liquor.

He has frankly told the people, told the president and told congress that the best he can do is to strangle and shut down the sources of major supplies of illicit liquors. That he is trying to do; but that does not pacify the Wayne Wheeler drys. They insist that he should chase and capture every bow-legged bootlegger who scurries through a town alley at midnight and follow the scent of corn-mash up every cool-trail in the mountains and gulches of the continent.

It just can't be done! If the State, Why Not the State?
General Andrews insists that the minor infractions of prohibition—the individual making, selling and transportation of liquor—can only be dealt with by state officials and police forces, with any hope of meaningfully minimizing them. He constantly calls for coordination of such enforcement agencies with those of his department.

Mr. Land said he believes the money will be of great value to the school officials in financing the schools and thereby facilitating the opening before taxes begin to come in. This is the first time in the history of the state that school funds have been out so early, it was stated. The first cash payment has never heretofore been made prior to the month of December.

Mr. Land said that this has been made possible through the present management of the state's financial affairs by Governor Walker, “Comptroller” of the National American Association of State Treasurers W. G. Spier, and State Auditor Sam J. Slate.

FLYING IN FACE OF DANGER.
According to newspaper reports, some of the ammunition which exploded in the big New Jersey blast had been stored there since the Spanish American war. Probably it was kept there by way of preparedness for an emergency.

Some people are about as careless or irresponsible in the matter of keeping dangerous things about the house as our army and navy authorities are in keeping explosives about the country.

Here are a few of the deadly things which no responsible householder should keep in the home, or even bring into the home except under special guard or protection: Arsenic (Paris green, white arsenic, lead arsenate).

Lyso (compound cresol solution). Bichlorid of mercury (corrosive sublimate). Starchin (in various pills, tablets, capsules or other forms which appeal to childish curiosity).

Wood alcohol (methyl alcohol, Wood naphtha). Lye. Shooting implements or ammunition. These dangerous things figure in the majority of fatal accidents in the home.

Carbolic acid has its proper purpose, but is far too dangerous for anyone except a doctor to use. It is an antiseptic than many antiseptics are, such as boric acid. Even in the dilute form, in solutions or saline, carbolic acid is a dangerous thing and often seriously retards the natural healing process; occasionally it causes gangrene or death of the injured tissues to which it is applied.

The Drama Closes

N. plaudits now shall ring within the hall of Death.

Where you shall know a ghostly audience, No curtains there shall rise to lift your gilded name. To brights that made your fame a flame intense.

No robes of starchy romance shall your shoulders drape Across their fragile selves, or silver tears. Or laughter ring again, or youthful heartbeats stir. These now shall be but one with drifting years.

But in your opal solitude where pale Death reigns, God grant that you may know upon Life's stage The romance that was yours . . . your part . . . the part you played. Have it all to you a deathless heritage.

U. S. AGENTS ADOPT DRASTIC METHODS
New York, August 23.—Prohibition enforcement has taken on the color of the United States customs service with these significant announcements by John C. Hill, deputy surveyor of the service.

Forty special customs inspectors have been sent into New York harbor in three boats to investigate smuggling from ocean liners. Their task will be to search vessels in the trans-Atlantic trade and those coming from South America.

Information given to newly sworn in men sleuths will be paid for, up to $50,000, according to the value of seizures, penalties and hall forfeits resulting from the “tip.”

In announcing the latest method of prohibition enforcement, McGill declared his readiness to make full use of section 619 of the tariff act of 1922 which provides that “any person not an officer of the United States who detects and seizes any vessel or subject to seizure and forfeiture under the customs laws, and who reports same to an officer of the customs, or furnishes information, may be awarded and paid by the secretary of treasury, a compensation of 25 per cent of the net amount recovered, but not to exceed $50,000 in any case shall be paid out of the moneys appropriated to that purpose.

DAVIS OF DEKALB DEFIES J. J. BROWN

Declares Commissioner Notified Him He Should Not Be Returned to House.

Rehoboth, DeKalb County, August 23.—(Special.)—James C. Davis, candidate for reelection to the general assembly from DeKalb County, fired a hot shot at the J. J. Brown administration of the department of agriculture in his address here this afternoon, in which he said that in his support to abolish the present system of oil inspection in Georgia he was notified by Commissioner Brown during the last session of the legislature that he should not be returned to the house from DeKalb County.

"I accepted his challenge then, and I throw defiance in his face now," said Mr. Davis in his address today before an enthusiastic audience. He showed that Georgia has 186 state oil inspectors alone and about as many more fertilizer and other inspectors, having as many as one-fourth of all the oil inspectors of all the states of the union put together.

Mr. Davis read telegrams from surrounding states on the number of oil inspectors engaged by each as follows:

T. J. Shelby, commissioner of agriculture of South Carolina, telegraphed from Columbia that South Carolina had only four gasoline inspectors with distillation test used.

Ten in North Carolina.

W. M. Allen, state chemist of North Carolina, telegraphed that North Carolina has only 10 oil inspectors with distillation test.

Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, telegraphed that Florida has only 13 inspectors for everything, oils, foods, drugs, fertilizers, fruits, etc., against Georgia's nearly 400.

Continuing Mr. Davis said: "One hundred and thirty-eight determined members of the last house of representatives stood by their guns until the bill which was drawn to abolish the 186 oil inspectors and put into effect the distillation test, had passed the house. This bill would have passed the senate and would have been a law now, had it not been for the action of the commissioner of agriculture, Mr. Brown, in appearing before the senate agricultural committee, speaking against this bill, and urging the senate to kill it. The fact that Georgia is having to maintain an army of 186 oil inspectors alone is an act for which Mr. Brown is responsible.

"It has been said, and truthfully said, that Georgia is the dumping ground for all the low grade gasoline in this section of the nation. It is the dumping ground because our present law leaves us no protection against low grade gasoline being sold.

"We use the gravity test. This test will not determine the grade of gasoline. The only test which will show the quality and grade of gasoline is the distillation test. This test is prescribed by the federal government. It is in use in most of the states of the union. It is used by all the states surrounding Georgia. Under it, six inspectors can accurately grade and test all the gasoline which enters Georgia. From a standpoint of economy, this will save the state the salary of 186 oil inspectors. From a standpoint of protection to the gasoline user, it will for the first time in the history of the state of Georgia establish a standard of gasoline, and provide that no gasoline may be sold which does not come up to that standard. And best of all, it will provide a test which will actually determine the grade and quality of gasoline.

"Even Mr. Brown now realizes that he can no longer defend the gravity test. In one of his campaign booklets in this section he says as follows:

Quotes Commissioner.

I desire to be here that I agreed with my friends in the last legislature, that we should have the distillation test and that our laws should be amended, but as commissioner I wanted them rewritten by unbiased men who desired to benefit the state of Georgia. Instead of being amended by a group of men who were trying to protect the present commission, as some of those in that group tried to do during the last session of the legislature, rather than render a service to the people of Georgia. The state auditor and myself have gone through certain plans and will make certain suggestions to the next legislature as to how these laws may be best rewritten.

"I desire at this juncture to ask the people of the great state of Georgia: Who appointed Mr. Brown the guardian of the legislature? Did the voters of Georgia elect him to lobby around the capitol every session of the legislature endeavoring to thwart every attempt the legislature makes to protect the people of Georgia from low grade gasoline and every attempt by the legislature to save the state's money from flowing into the pockets of absolutely useless office-holders? Or did the voters expect Mr. Brown to attend to his business, and the legislature responsible to the people for being responsible to the people for their own acts? Does it lie in Mr. Brown's mouth to slander 138 legislators (an overwhelming majority) in the house by referring to them as 'biased men who desired to persecute him rather than render a service to the people of Georgia'? How can he face the people of Georgia and tell them he tried to render a service when the only thing he did was to fight to retain a system of oil inspection which he himself now admits is worthless?

"A great fight is being made by the members of the present legislature all over the state of Georgia to cut out this dead wood. The truth is being told to the people of Georgia, and regardless of Mr. Brown's opinion and suggestions, the next legislature will see the overhauling done. The present extravagant, useless system of oil inspection, and the establishment of a system which will afford protection at a reasonable cost."

BANQUET TO OPEN
NEW CLUBHOUSE
AT SYLVAN HILLS

A banquet and an elaborate program will feature the formal opening at 7:30 o'clock Friday night of the Sylvan Hills Improvement club in its newly-constructed $10,000 building in Sylvan Hills.

The club was organized approximately one year ago for the general improvement of the community. Since its organization its membership has increased greatly and now 200 residents of the section are on the rolls of the club.

S. P. Cronheim, prominent Atlantian, dedicated a lot for the site of the new clubhouse and a committee was appointed immediately to formulate plans for the erection of the new building.

Mrs. Sedwick, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced Monday that the club planned to entertain approximately 1,000 guests at the opening. The main auditorium will seat 700 persons. In addition to this space the clubhouse has a dining room which seats nearly as many persons as the main auditorium, and also two large porches and two restrooms.

The program to be presented Friday consists of two plays to be given by the Eastlake players; Tootsie Dunbar, popular dancer, in a series of dances; a solo by Mrs. Charles Wood; songs by the Woodmen of the World quartet, and a solo by Mrs. Walter Simmons. W. Comer Davis is president of the organization, and will act as toastmaster at the banquet.

COLONEL E. S. ADAMS COMES TO ATLANTA

Lieutenant Colonel Emory S. Adams, formerly on duty in the adjutant general's department, Washington, D. C., has arrived in Atlanta to become assistant to the adjutant general of the fourth corps area. Colonel H. H. Tobitts has been selected to relieve Colonel Edgar T. Conley, the former adjutant general of this area. Colonel Tobitts will assume his duties September 5.

EIGHTH OUTBREAK ENDS IN GREECE

Athens, Greece, August 23.—(AP)—Greece is settling down comfortably after her eighth revolution since the beginning of the century. Big demonstrations have been held in the principal cities acclaiming the coup of General Condylis, who overthrew President Pangalos and his government early Sunday, and denouncing the shortcomings and errors of the Pangalos regime.

Pangalos has been brought back to Athens as a prisoner, having been captured after his attempted escape from the Island of Spetzæ on the destroyer Pergamos.

Greek currency, which the policy of the deposed government failed to improve, has quickly responded to the new conditions, showing a strong upward tendency on the exchange market today, reflecting confidence in financial quarters.

The newspapers, which suffered heavily under the suppressive policy of Pangalos, are pleased at their new found freedom.

The circumstances of the deposed president's attempt to escape aboard the Pergamos and his efforts to hide in the wireless net of the destroyer, as related here, have made him ridiculous in the eyes of the general public.

Almost the only governmental action for which he is given credit is the conclusion of the Balkan agreements, particularly with Yugoslavia, and it is understood that General Condylis intends to carry out all these agreements and maintain the foreign policy on the same line as Pangalos so far as the Balkans are concerned.

Two of the president's aides also were arrested and taken aboard the Pergamos, which was overtaken by the battleship Leon and threatened with destruction if it did not surrender.

DR. ELIOT'S FUNERAL PLANNED FOR TODAY

Northeast Harbor, Maine, August 23.—(AP)—Funeral services for Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, who died yesterday at his summer home here, will be at noon tomorrow in the Union church of Northeast Harbor, Dr. Francis G. Peabody, of Cambridge, Mass., a brother of the first Mrs. Eliot, will preach the sermon and he will be assisted by Dr. Henry Wilder Foote, of Belmont, Mass., a nephew of Dr. Eliot.

The body will be taken by boat to Cambridge, where services will be held on Wednesday in the Appleton chapel at Harvard. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, the only surviving member of Dr. Eliot's immediate family, will accompany his father's body to Cambridge. Interment will be in Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, where many relatives have been laid at rest.

While messages of sympathy from all parts of the country were received today, recalling the fame of the venerable educator, scientist, philosopher and author, friends and neighbors there spoke of him also as one of the "founders" of Mount Desert island as a summer colony.

Dr. Eliot had been a summer resident of the island for almost 50 years, coming for the first time long before Bar Harbor became known as a fashionable summer center.

The house in which he died at Asticou, a mile from Northeast Harbor, was built by him in 1880.

Stronger Bank Laws Needed, Says Carswell

Madison, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Stressing the necessity for stronger banking laws in Walton, Morgan and Greene counties today, George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, believes these three counties are definitely placed in the Carswell ranks for September 8, he stated here after the last speech. Mr. Carswell left his headquarters in Atlanta this morning, speaking at the noon recess of Walton superior court in Monroe where more than 500 people heard him.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon he spoke in Madison and tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Greensboro, both cities turning out good audiences. In these addresses he charged that Holder would issue a statement before the end of the week trying to break with J. J. Brown.

A feature of the meeting today was the presence of a motorcycle of Irwinton citizens—from Carswell's hometown—who met him in Madison with their cars placarded with Carswell banners, heard his address here and continued with him to Greensboro. They will remain with Carswell until he passes through Wilkinson county Tuesday night, it was stated. Following Mr. Carswell's address in Madison his daughter, Miss Ellen Carswell, sang two songs in front of the drug store and she was loudly applauded.

In Monroe he was paid tribute for his "long and distinguished" legislative career. Mr. Carswell spoke of his do to with this race, that the next early interest in educational affairs governor will not even be asked to from common schools through the institutions of higher learning, and said Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, and former state superintendent of schools, had paid him the highest compliment of his career by saying that "George Carswell had done more for the common schools of Georgia than any man in the legislature since the civil war."

Mr. Carswell quoted the state auditor's report to show that the taxpayers' money had been wasted, naming specific instances and he criticized J. N. Holder for trying to "straddle the fence" on the bond issue question. "First he's for 'em and then he's against 'em," said Mr. Carswell. "You can't place your finger on Holder and for that reason if for no other, he is an unsafe leader. Any fool can follow the crowd and any fool can cry 'crucify him,' but it takes a man to stand up and face the music, it takes a man to advocate issues that are for the best interests of the state when they seem unpopular, but thank God I am neither a moral or political coward."

Mr. Carswell explained his attitude on state bonds declaring his opposition to any bond issue that would be turned over to the present state highway department but he also pointed out that state bonds have nothing to do with this race, that the next governor will not even be asked to approve or disapprove a bond issue. "That will not come about in any event until 1929," said Mr. Carswell.

He candidate also criticized Holder's road projects, "Pats, promises and campaign of deception, holding out to the state that he has 800 miles to allow; when I defy him to show where he has more than 49.5 miles under any law of the state. Although they tried to get good, honest Stanley Bennett, their co-mate on the highway board to agree with them, John Holder says that his attorney says that he has more than 49.5 miles. But Mr. Bennett did not say so and Mr. Bennett isn't going to say so either."

Following Mr. Carswell in Monroe, Fort E. Land, candidate for reelection as state school superintendent, spoke from the same platform.

MISS LOIS DOWDLE TO ADDRESS KIWANIS

Miss Lois P. Dowdle, of the State College of Agriculture, will be principal speaker at the regular Tuesday luncheon of the Kiwanis club, to be held this noon at the Ansley hotel. Miss Dowdle is supervisor of the girls' club work throughout Georgia.

Frank Reynolds, who is in charge of program, has also arranged for a musical entertainment by Miss Jeffie Fincher, of Canton, Ga. Among the women guests of prominence who will attend the luncheon are Mrs. John I. Ottley, Mrs. William Healey, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Mrs. Robert Jones, Jr., and Mrs. Samuel Inman.

Mr. Carswell explained his attitude on state bonds declaring his opposition to any bond issue that would be turned over to the present state highway department but he also pointed out that state bonds have nothing to do with this race, that the next governor will not even be asked to approve or disapprove a bond issue. "That will not come about in any event until 1929," said Mr. Carswell.

He candidate also criticized Holder's road projects, "Pats, promises and campaign of deception, holding out to the state that he has 800 miles to allow; when I defy him to show where he has more than 49.5 miles under any law of the state. But Mr. Bennett did not say so and Mr. Bennett isn't going to say so either."

Following Mr. Carswell in Monroe, Fort E. Land, candidate for reelection as state school superintendent, spoke from the same platform.

LADY ASTOR SEES STATE SECRETARY KELLOGG AND WIFE

Washington, August 23.—(AP)—Lady Astor, famous member of the British house of commons, accompanied by Viscount Astor and three of her children, William, Phyllis and David, made a brief stop in Washington this afternoon on the way to her estate, Mirador, near Charlottesville, Virginia.

The Astor visitors were welcomed by Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg and taken for an automobile ride in the secretary's car before resuming their journey.

The former Nancy Langhorne said she will make only one public appearance prior to her return to England, when she will address the League of Women Voters at a dinner in her honor in New York the night before her departure on September 9.

Mr. Carswell explained his attitude on state bonds declaring his opposition to any bond issue that would be turned over to the present state highway department but he also pointed out that state bonds have nothing to do with this race, that the next governor will not even be asked to approve or disapprove a bond issue. "That will not come about in any event until 1929," said Mr. Carswell.

Distinctive Furniture at Low Prices Building Patronage for Philibosian

September first is moving day and every housewife who is planning to go into a new home or apartment is shopping around for furniture in suites or odd pieces to beautify her new home for the coming year. Stephen Philibosian, Inc., beautiful furniture, rug and drapery store at 381 Peachtree street, is enjoying an excellent patronage because this store has anticipated the needs of the housewife and has brought to Atlanta for her approval some of the most beautiful furniture ever shown in the south.

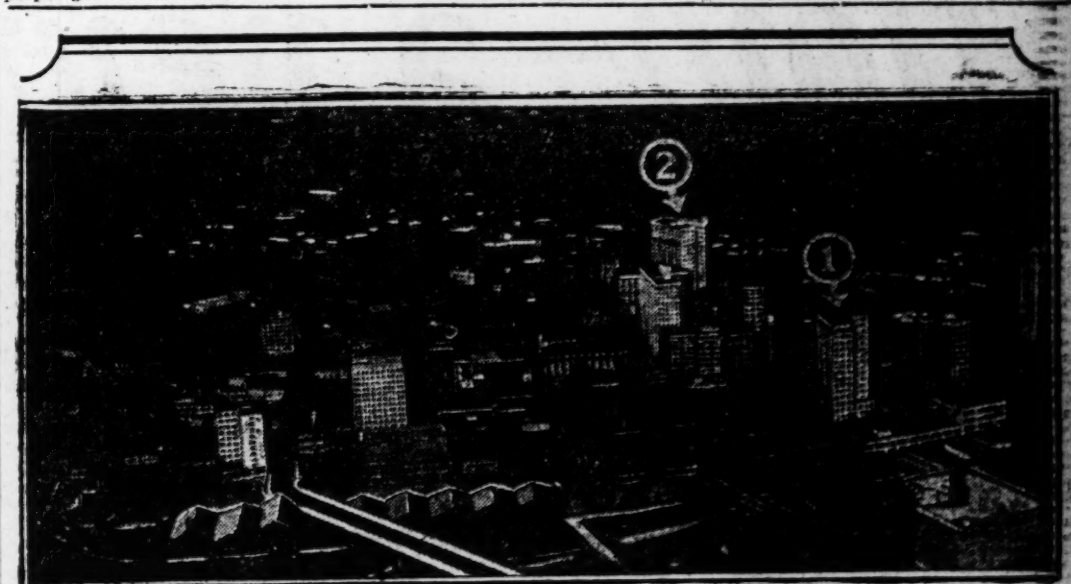

On account of the atmosphere of elegance one instantly recognizes upon entering this store a great many people get the idea that here is an exclusive store whose prices for the average home are prohibitive. Such an impression is absolutely wrong. Philibosian has furniture covering a great range of price but the great bulk of his merchandise is no higher than that found in the average furniture store.

The difference lies in the store's policy of selling for cash. Such a plan reduces the cost of operation to a minimum and the firm is passing this great saving along to the customer.

As a result the store is able to offer the most beautiful designs in all the popular shades and materials at prices that are amazingly low. The above photograph shows a glimpse of one corner of a room at the store, that has been fitted up with a charming example of bedroom furniture.

In addition to having the great stock of furniture and rugs from which to make selections, the firm has set up model furnishings for most every room in the house and such exquisite examples are valuable suggestions in the furnishing of your home.

If you are planning to buy furniture, rugs, draperies of any description it will be a wise plan to go to this store and see for yourself that every claim made for the quality of the merchandise and the extremely low prices is absolutely true.—(ad.)

If It's Too Hot Up North— Come To Atlanta!

July, August and September are hot months—no question about it.

But how many Atlantans realize that they are getting off with a light sentence of hot weather, compared to practically any northern or middle western city?

The New York Times recently said: "Given a thousand feet elevation, as at Atlanta . . . the summer climate is more agreeable than in New York or Philadelphia." And, of course, "The southern winter is a perpetual joy to the northerner."

Summer or winter, come to Atlanta—for business or pleasure! And when you are in the city, associate yourself with the south-east's largest bank—to be sure of complete, well organized financial cooperation.

Engineered to a standard—Built complete at the factory

Engineered to a Standard-- Built Complete at the Factory

"Engineered to a standard." To do one job only—and to do it perfectly—to heat homes. To provide always, regardless of weather, just the right heat, at the right time. To operate without the expert supervision given industrial oil burners—but to be instead, wholly automatic. To be quiet, odorless, clean. To be unflinching and instantly efficient. To be genuinely economical.

This, in Kleen-Heat, is both an ideal and an actuality. For not only is Kleen-Heat "engineered to a standard." It is also "Built complete at the factory." Kleen-Heat's efficiency does not depend upon complicated installation. Nothing is left to artisans unskilled in the science of heating. In Kleen-Heat, everything necessary to efficient operation in your home comes in-built, according to engineers' specifications.

That is why, through more than six years, Kleen-Heat has so remarkable a record of performance. In homes of every size—and in every type of heating plant.

PONCK TESTS PLANE AS HE PLANS TO ACROSS ATLANTIC

Westbury, N. Y., August 23.—(AP)—The second test flight of the 4-35, the plane in which Captain Rene Ponck expects to cross the Atlantic next month, was made over New York city this afternoon. A short flight over Long Island was made earlier today.

The plane left Roosevelt field at 5:50 p. m., with Captain Ponck and Lieutenant A. P. Snoddy at the controls. The plane carried eight passengers, among them Ignor Sikorsky, designer and builder, and was back at the field at 5 p. m.

Lieutenant Snoddy said that the plane has safely demonstrated that it can operate on only one motor when lightly loaded. The Jupiter motors were used alternately today.

Similar flights will be made tomorrow and during the remainder of the week, with the plane more heavily loaded. Cross-country flights will be made next week. Captain Ponck does not expect to hop off on his trans-Atlantic flight before September 15.

member of city council, who died Monday morning at the residence, 300 Peachtree road, following an illness of several weeks will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Mary Boynton, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dr. John S. Hurt, and Robert M. Crumley.

A native of Atlanta, Mr. Boynton has spent practically all of his life here and always took an active part in the development of the city. His death comes as a shock to his many friends, who were not aware that his condition was critical.

Mr. Boynton received his early education in the public schools of the city and at an early age entered Boys' High. He later attended Webb's School for Boys at Bellville, Tenn., and then went to Princeton university, where he was graduated in the class of 1901.

Soon after his graduation from Princeton, Mr. Boynton returned to Atlanta and entered the wholesale grocery business and it was then that he became interested in the growth and development of Atlanta. He served for several years as president of the Central Improvement association, with which he was connected at the time of his death. He served in an advisory capacity on committees of the Dobbs-Weyman company.

Mr. Boynton was the son of the late Charles E. Boynton, who was a founder of the firm of Chamberlain-Johnson-Boynton, predecessors to the Chamberlain-Johnson-Dulose company. He formerly owned a large tract of land on Whitehall street and Capitol avenue. He took an active interest in church work and was a member of the Trinity Methodist church, which his maternal grandfather helped to found.

Mr. Boynton is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Oscar Davis and Miss Virginia Boynton, both of Atlanta; a son, George Hamilton Boynton, Jr., also of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. Newton Craig and Mrs. Fred W. Cole, of Atlanta; a brother, Dr. Charles B. Boynton, and his mother, Mrs. Myrah Boynton.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Boynton will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son, in charge.

U. S. Survey Commission To Urge Appropriation For Battle Ground Park

Kennesaw Mountain Body Will Recommend Inclusion of Peachtree Creek Site in Memorial Project.

Recommendations that the Peachtree creek battlefield be included in the federal appropriation for the preservation of Kennesaw mountain and other territories of historic value about Atlanta, will be made by the commission appointed by the department to make a thorough survey of this section under the Kennesaw mountain bill. The commission is composed of Major General John L. Clem, retired, of the United States army; Lieutenant Colonel W. P. Stokely, of the fourth corps area, and ex-Governor Nat P. Harris, of Georgia, and will have its report ready by Thursday of this week.

General Clem and Colonel Stokely were in conference here Monday. Ex-Governor Harris is ill and could not be in attendance, but the report will be submitted to him Friday by General Clem before he returns to Washington. It is understood that whatever decisions are made in the matter by General Clem and Colonel Stokely will be approved by Mr. Harris.

In making the announcement, General Clem said that they had not gone fully into the matter yet, but he was sure that the commission's report would include a recommendation that the government lend its aid to the movement to convert the old city disposal plant into a beautiful memorial park—to be known as the Peachtree Battle Memorial park.

Both Enthusiastic.

Both Colonel Stokely and General Clem are enthusiastic over the proposal and believe the Peachtree creek site should be preserved along with other famous old battlefields of the civil war in this part of the city. Unanimous support by the people of Atlanta, will be necessary to the project, General Clem pointed out, expressing himself as being gratified with the great interest which has already been displayed in the proposed memorial park.

The Peachtree battlefield, now the site of a disposal plant, once ran red with the blood of soldiers of the north and south, during the memorable battle of Atlanta. Nothing has been done towards permanently marking this historic spot, save the movement now under way, which will gather great impetus when it is learned that the federal commission has lent its support.

General Clem stated that it would require through Thursday to complete the report, at which time it should be made public. He, with Colonel Stokely and Mr. Harris, made a survey of Kennesaw mountain and other sites, including Peachtree creek.

Bill Proposed Survey.

President Coolidge signed the Kennesaw mountain bill May 22. The measure provided for $5,000 for the survey of the Kennesaw mountain battlefields and the movements of both armies in the civil war in and around Kennesaw mountain. Under the bill, one of these commissioners was to be a Confederate veteran, the other a Federal veteran, and the third to be selected from the engineering corps of the army. Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, suggested the name of ex-Governor Harris for the Confederate position, and his fitness for the honor was promptly recognized by the war department. He is known as the founder of Georgia's first and best engineering corps of the army.

Major General Clem has many friends in Atlanta and this section of the state. He lived in this city for five years, serving in the quartermaster department of the army. He first came here as a lieutenant about 1890, later being promoted to a captain, and then becoming major, this rank placing him in charge of the quartermaster department of the old department of the gulf. During his early service in Atlanta he was in charge of the federal cemeteries at Marietta.

His appointment, together with that of ex-Governor Harris and

Cracker Clan Loses 3rd Game of Series To Memphis, 2 to 0

Game is Called in Last of Fifth Inning With Chicks Holding Two Run Lead—Love and Griffin on Mound.

Memphis, Tenn., August 23.—(Special.)—Between showers the Cracker and the Chickasaws got in just sufficient innings to make it a legal ball game and for the Chicks to win by the score of 2 to 0 here this afternoon at Rushwood park.

With the bases filled and one out in the fifth, dark clouds hovering over the bayou chirping, Turner Barber lashed a single to left, scoring Ed Cousineau, and then it rained. The more, and the game was called by Umpire Clark. Clarence Griffin singled to start the third inning and later scored on Barber's sacrifice fly into center for the other Chick.

After waiting 35 minutes after the scheduled starting time, the teams went on the field without the Cracker getting their daily practice. The Chicks, however, managed to get in a few minutes of light hitting before the tarpaulins were spread over the diamond to keep it dry during the downpour.

There were hardly enough people in the stands to have had a good game of rounders, but those few remained and guessed with the elements and witnessed the bottled game.

The attendance was 472.

Griffin Holds Cracker.

Clarence Griffin, the young leader of the tribe, who opposed Louie Love, the right hand of the Cracker, turned in his 16th victory of the season. He has lost but five games. Griffin allowed three hits, all singles, which were scattered throughout three innings. The Chicks got to Love for six hits, including two in the third and three in the fifth.

Griffin pitched a complete game, rather soggy condition of the grounds, materially aided both pitchers. Jenkins walked with one out in the Chicks' second inning, and Cousineau hit into a double play with runners on first and second and one out in the third. The Cracker were retired on a double play. Good and Love, who was safe trying to steal second when Jenkins dropped Cousineau's throw. Niehoff had popped to third. Murphy singled, sending Good to third. Griffin hit one past Griffin that Klugman got after a hard try. He tagged Murphy and then doubled Griffin at first.

Griffin's bat figured in both of the Chicks' runs. He singled past third starting the third inning. Calvo bunted for a single, and then he went to second and Griffin took third when Brock threw left and wide to first. The Cracker struck out. Here Calvo batted. Game is Called in Last of Fifth Inning With Chicks Holding Two Run Lead—Love and Griffin on Mound.

Memphis, Tenn., August 23.—(Special.)—Between showers the Cracker and the Chickasaws got in just sufficient innings to make it a legal ball game and for the Chicks to win by the score of 2 to 0 here this afternoon at Rushwood park.

With the bases filled and one out in the fifth, dark clouds hovering over the bayou chirping, Turner Barber lashed a single to left, scoring Ed Cousineau, and then it rained. The more, and the game was called by Umpire Clark. Clarence Griffin singled to start the third inning and later scored on Barber's sacrifice fly into center for the other Chick.

After waiting 35 minutes after the scheduled starting time, the teams went on the field without the Cracker getting their daily practice. The Chicks, however, managed to get in a few minutes of light hitting before the tarpaulins were spread over the diamond to keep it dry during the downpour.

There were hardly enough people in the stands to have had a good game of rounders, but those few remained and guessed with the elements and witnessed the bottled game.

The attendance was 472.

Griffin Holds Cracker.

Clarence Griffin, the young leader of the tribe, who opposed Louie Love, the right hand of the Cracker, turned in his 16th victory of the season. He has lost but five games. Griffin allowed three hits, all singles, which were scattered throughout three innings. The Chicks got to Love for six hits, including two in the third and three in the fifth.

Griffin pitched a complete game, rather soggy condition of the grounds, materially aided both pitchers. Jenkins walked with one out in the Chicks' second inning, and Cousineau hit into a double play with runners on first and second and one out in the third. The Cracker were retired on a double play. Good and Love, who was safe trying to steal second when Jenkins dropped Cousineau's throw. Niehoff had popped to third. Murphy singled, sending Good to third. Griffin hit one past Griffin that Klugman got after a hard try. He tagged Murphy and then doubled Griffin at first.

Griffin's bat figured in both of the Chicks' runs. He singled past third starting the third inning. Calvo bunted for a single, and then he went to second and Griffin took third when Brock threw left and wide to first. The Cracker struck out. Here Calvo batted. LOCKHART WINS RACES AT CHARLOTTE SPEEDWAY

Charlotte, N. C., August 23.—(By The Associated Press.)—Frank Lockhart today sped his way into the affection of Carolina racing fans when he emerged with a major share of glory in the semi-annual races at the local speedway.

Driving before a gathering of some 20,000 persons, Lockhart won both the 50-mile event and the 150-mile race, the latter the feature run of the day.

His average speed for the long race was 120.54 miles an hour and his time 1:14:27. Frank Elliott flashed over the finishing line a goodly distance behind him and next came Eddie Hearn.

Molla Mallory Regains National Tennis Crown

New York Net Star Defeats Miss Ryan To Win Eighth Title

Former Champion Comes From Behind With Smashing Attack to Beat Girl Star For Crown Relinquished by Miss Helen Wills.

BY MAURICE MERMEY.

Forest Hills, N. Y., August 23.—With one of the most valiant dying stands ever made by an athlete on any field of battle, Mrs. Molla Mallory turned an almost sure defeat into a sensational victory at the West Side Tennis club here this afternoon when she won the national women's tennis championship for the eighth time.

Mrs. Mallory, playing against Elizabeth Ryan, regarded since the retirement of Miss Suzanne Lenglen and the illness of Helen Wills, as the best amateur player in the world, was love-four in the deciding set of the final match when she started fighting and didn't stop fighting until she had won the championship at 4-6, 6-4 and 9-7.

Miss Ryan had a share of glory, however, when she won the national doubles championship with Miss Eleanor Goss. They defeated Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin and Miss Mary K. Browne at 6-4 and 12-10.

Slow Starting. Mrs. Mallory did not get going until the middle of the second set when she started playing like one inspired instead of like a court-worn veteran of more than 10 hard championship campaigns.

Her spirit which carried her from what seemed inevitable defeat must have been due in no small part to the support given her from the gallery. For the first time in her career on American courts, the former Molla Bjurstedt found the spectators solidly behind her. There were not more than 3,000 in the stands but they had the volume of twice that number in letting Mrs. Mallory know they were rooting for her.

Also for the first time in her career, Mrs. Mallory responded to the gallery. She waved her hands and smiled so much that she didn't seem to be the same savage Molla who, usually, fighting as the underdog, had nothing but glares and sneers for those who would wish her opponent victory.

The Desperate Battle. In the desperate battle for deciding points in the final set, Mrs. Mallory jumped up and down on the court when a fluke would give her a point or a line drive from her opponent would miss the sliding by a fraction of an inch. She even forgot herself in her happiness to wave at the press box, where in years past she wouldn't even direct a glance.

The actions of Mrs. Mallory, the exertion of combating heat and a desperate attack that she couldn't handle, and the partnership of the crowd had their effects on Miss Ryan.

When the score reached seven-all in the final set, a sage remarked in the press box: "Some one's got to crack now."

And it was Miss Ryan who cracked and blew to the skies. As a tennis match it was no brilliant; as a fight it was superb; as a demonstration of courage and determination on Mrs. Mallory's part, it was not surpassed even by Jack Dempsey when he climbed back through the ropes and felled the giant Firpo.

Molla Had to Fight. Mrs. Mallory had to fight to get a 4-6 score in the first set, and she had to battle to win the second at 6-4, as she seemed always to be at a disadvantage. When Miss Ryan gained a four-love lead in the third set, Mrs. Mallory's chance couldn't have been sold for a dime. But the Norwegian woman didn't quit fighting and she won.

The Point Scores:
Miss Ryan . . . 116 642 143 4 35-6
Mrs. Mallory . . . 144 414 406 1 28-1

ENTRIES IN CONSTITUTION AQUATIC MEET

Above are a few of the first entries in The Constitution swimming meet to be held at Piedmont park next month. The pretty mermaid at the upper left is Miss Bertha Muller, an accomplished dash swimmer. At the upper right the photographer caught Miss Athleen Knight when this fair swimmer was ready for a dive. In the center above is Stiles Mellichamp, a diver of no mean ability. The smiling gentleman with the wicked bathing suit at the lower left is Tom Haskins, husky swimming ace of Georgia Tech. The gentleman in the center picture at the bottom, who is about to submerge, is Tom Lundy, another formidable swimmer. Set for the dash is George McDonald, who will enter the diving events as well as the short distance swims. Because of the large number of entries on the first day it was impossible to use all the pictures this morning. A number of other first entrants will be pictured on this page in another issue.

JACK PLEASED WITH OUTLOOK OF BIG ARENA

Philadelphia, August 23.—(P)—

Jack Dempsey, stopping off today en route to his new training camp at Atlantic City, inspected the site for his heavyweight championship battle with Gene Tunney September 25. The champion, together with his wife, promoter, Tex Rickard; Mayor Kendrick and others, visited the arena within the inclosure of the Sesqui-centennial exposition grounds.

Dempsey was highly impressed with the huge $3,000,000 municipal stadium. As he looked about him, at the high tiers of seats, he exclaimed: "This is a knockout of a place. What a spot it will be when it is filled up!"

The titleholder left for Atlantic City tonight after a conference with Rickard. He intends to start training tomorrow provided that his camp is ready for him.

When Dempsey arrived at Broad street station he was greeted by a crowd of several thousand that jammed the station and blocked traffic in the streets. The throng poured after him into the city hall and into the mayor's offices.

After inspecting the stadium Dempsey was a guest of honor at a luncheon at the Sesqui-centennial grounds attended by Mayor Kendrick and E. L. Austin, director general of the exposition.

On his way out of the exposition grounds Dempsey was driven by an encampment of 1,000 marines. They gave him a cordial "Hello, Jack," but in the next breath into yells, "We want Tunney!" Dempsey merely grinned.

Rickard opened headquarters here today, bringing with him a staff of assistants from Madison Square Garden.

Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, came with Rickard to inspect several training sites offered the challenger.

Today is the day that the swimming course at Piedmont park, which has been constructed for the use of entrants in The Constitution swimming meet, is to be finished. And, judging from the number of entry blanks which have been received in the first mail, Piedmont park will be a busy place for the next few days.

The course, built according to A. A. U. regulation, under the supervision of L. L. Wallis, manager of parks, has been completed at this early date so that entrants may practice their events over the course at their leisure.

There has been some question raised as to the dives to be required in the diving events. There will be four required dives in each class as follows: Plain front or swan dive; plain back dive; front jackknife and back jackknife. Optional dives will be added to the list and all dives will be scored according to A. A. U. scoring rules.

Descriptive pictures of the four required dives will be printed in this newspaper between now and next Wednesday. Bill Murray, springboard ace of the Athletic club team, has been caught by the camera in different stages of the four dives and the pictures should be a great help to less experienced divers, who intend to practice for the big meet.

As has been stated before, The Constitution water carnival contests are open to any man, woman or child in Atlanta over the age of nine years, provided he or she is a swimmer, amateur.

The contests are staged for the express purpose of stimulating interest in swimming. The city has provided a number of modern pools for the use of any and all persons in Atlanta who are interested in water sports, and no sport is more conducive to good public health than swimming.

Therefore, has taken this method of doing its part to aid the city in its campaign for good health and clean sports.

An application blank will be found in connection with this story and receipt of this blank properly signed at the Constitution office entitles the applicant to a place in the mammoth meet.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Considerable space has been filled in the columns of this and other newspapers in the past about the struggle for honors in the National league pennant race, but the situation has come to such a pass that further discourse might not be amiss.

Today three teams are—to all intents and purposes—tied for first place in the senior circuit. The St. Louis Cardinals are out in front by the small margin of one point in the percentage column, while Pittsburgh and Cincinnati are tied with a percentage of .579. The Cardinal percentage is .580.

This condition is more than remarkable. It is astounding, and is made more intriguing by the fact that three other teams—Chicago, New York and Brooklyn—are so located that a spectacular climb to the top is not beyond the pale of possibility for any of them.

Such a major league race is destined to go down in baseball history.

About the Cubs.
We journeyed to Spiller's field to see the new colored Cubs in action and we are here to state that the game did not lack for action. It is true that the newly organized aggregation which takes the place of the ill-fated Black Crackers in the colored league has more losses than victories to its credit up to date, but it is certain that the failure of the team to win is not due to lack of enthusiasm or effort.

Graham, the diminutive shortstop for the Cubs, furnishes enough amusement with his acrobatic fielding to make a trip to Spiller's worth while. Incidentally, this same Graham is no mean ball player. All of the boys work hard from ball to ball, which is more than can be said of many white teams when they are losing consistently.

How many baseball fans have ever seen a one-armed pitcher? We venture to say there are few who have, but one of the aces on the Cub staff is "One-Arm" Maddox. It is a revelation to watch this colored boy in his mound work. And he pitches a good game of baseball despite his handicap.

THREE FORCED TO ABANDON CHANNEL SWIM

Dover, August 23.—(P)—Miss Clara Belle Barrett, of New Rochelle, N. Y., today failed in her second attempt to swim the English channel.

Miss Barrett abandoned her effort to conquer the channel at 5:20 o'clock this afternoon after being in the water 3 hours and 40 minutes. She was suffering from violent sickness when taken from the water.

MISS CANNON ALSO FAILS IN CHANNEL

Miss Lizzy Cannon, of Baltimore, abandoned her second attempt to swim the English channel at 10:50 Monday night.

Miss Cannon was in the water two hours and forty minutes, having entered the water at Cape Gris Nez at 8:10 o'clock. She had made approximately five miles when a shifting wind and a stormy sea made further progress impossible.

Cramps in the stomach caused Miss Cannon to quit.

She was soon followed out of the water by Kemmerich, who collided with a large dogfish and was so bruised that he was unable to continue. He covered 4 1/2 miles in the four hours he was in the water.

The Frenchman Lédrian and the German Vierkötter were presumably still swimming, but out of sight of the observers on shore, when this dispatch was filed.

130,000 Tickets Ordered by Tex For Title Bout

Philadelphia, August 23.—(P)—Orders for 130,000 tickets for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship bout September 23 have been placed with the printers and it is expected that they will be placed on sale before the end of the week. The advance sale exceeds $200,000.

Although Dempsey is understood to have decided on finishing his training at Atlantic City, exposition officials are hoping they can persuade him to establish his camp here. Tunney's new camp site has not yet been announced.

Dempsey, Tex Rickard, promoter of the show, and Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, had engagements today as guests of Mayor Kendrick and exposition officials.

James J. Corbett, former world's heavyweight champion, is due tomorrow, Tuesday. Corbett asserts he has the first claim to use of the stadium for a fight in which Dempsey would be one of the principals, and he is contemplating proceedings for an injunction.

Team of Veterans Will Seek Honors In S. A. A. U. Contest

Stars Holding Daily Workouts at East Lake Preparing For Big Water Meet at Birmingham — Miss Ashe Favored in Various Events.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

The aquatic stars of the Atlanta Athletic club are being groomed for several hours each day in preparation for the Southern A. A. U. meet, which takes place in Birmingham this week-end, and if performance in practice is any indication the Atlanta team is likely to repeat its performance of several other years and carry off the bacon this year.

The blue waters of East Lake are literally churned to a foam by the flashing arms of the speedy dash experts and sturdy distance swimmers, who are doing their daily grind under the direction of Bernard Neal and Steve Hartney, both noted swimmers whose names have appeared many times at the top of the list where athletic club swimmers were engaged.

Composed of Veterans.
The club team this year is composed largely of veterans and as a result the coaches are not expecting to pile up any great number of points in the junior events. They are confident, however, of placing enough contestants in the senior events to make them hard to beat.

A glance over the list of swimmers and divers who will wear the Athletic club colors at Birmingham on Friday and Saturday, is sufficient to convince even a pessimist that A. A. C. honors are not to go undisturbed.

One of the sure point winners on the team is Miss Virginia Ashe, fleet mermaid, who specializes in the dashes ranging from 50 yards to 220 yards. Miss Ashe has been showing excellent speed in the 220-yard event and has been clocked at a figure within a fraction of a second of the world's record, while in practice.

Individual Stars.
The individual stars in the senior men's events is "Red" Holloman, fiery-headed athlete, who has already made his name a by-word among swimmers of the south. "Red" has been breaking southern records in the 220-yard, 440-yard and 880-yard swims every day and the coaches are looking for this young man to carry away more than one first place this week-end.

Dave Young, outstanding star of last year's meet, has been off at camp most of the year but has been devoting many hours daily for the past two weeks to hard practice and is getting in shape. Dave is a back stroke artist of these parts and if he does not top first place in this event in the southern meet this year the winner will have him to beat.

Of the divers, there is one to whom no introduction is necessary for the name of Bill Murray has been listed with the best divers in the south for many years. Bill has been devoting much time to his spring-board work for several weeks and is at the top of his form. Coaches believe he will again take first place among the fancy divers.

Stars Going Good.
"Mutt" Cooper, who won the junior diving event in 1925, is also an entry to be reckoned with this year in the senior events. He is slated as among the juniors this season in the events and will be a formidable entry in the distances.

Another veteran whose name is not strange to followers of aquatic sports in the south is Bill Niles, member of the relay team and entry in the senior dash events. He is in good this year and is expected to reckon in the count at Birmingham.

Going good in the dashes and slated as a member of the relay squad is Dick McKintyre. Dick is showing steady improvement in the short distance events, according to Neal.

Tilden, Johnson Easily Win Match
Buster Harris, a young diver of no mean ability, is slated as an entry in the breast-stroke in which he has been knocking off good time in practice. He will also enter the fancy diving events.

Newport, R. I., August 23.—(P)—William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston, outstanding stars in the annual Newport invitation tennis tournament, scored decisive victories in their initial matches today, the veteran California net man defeating Daniel W. Niles, of Boston, 6-4, 6-1, after the national titleholder had crushed his opponent in love sets.

The triumphs carried the rivals into the third round, Tilden having drawn a first-round bye and Johnston having been advanced to his match against Niles by a default from Joshua Wheelwright.

The match was played in the second round, Tilden having drawn a first-round bye.

Brian I. C. Norton, the former South African, joined the national titleholder in the third round with a decisive victory over Richard Case, of Newport, 6-3, 6-1.

Brooklyn Signs Home Run King

Tyler, Texas, August 23.—(P)—"Big Moose" Clabough, slugging left-fielder of the Tyler club of the East Texas league, will join the Brooklyn Nationals as holder of a new home run record for organized baseball. He broke his own record here yesterday when he clouted his 62d drive in the final game of the league schedule.

Clabough hit his 61st homer Saturday to break the former record held by Tony Lazzeri, of the New York Yankees, scored when Tony was with the Salt Lake club, of the Pacific Coast league. The Yankee player's mark was made in a 161-game schedule, while the "Moose" played in 197 contests this year. Clabough is to report to the Dodgers immediately.

When Atlanta was little bigger than a village RED ROCK GINGER ALE was here. It has been the preferred drink of thousands of Atlantians for a great many years.

VIN RICHARDS, HUNTER WIN SIMPSON CUP

Chicago, August 23.—(P)—The Simpson cup, emblematic of the sectional team championship of the United States, is en route to the New York Lawn Tennis association.

Crashing through the buldog resistance of the title defending western association team, George Lott, Jr., and Lucien Williams, of Chicago, the empire combination of Vincent Richards and Francis Hunter ran off with the trophy yesterday by vanquishing their opponents in both singles and doubles of the final round.

Richards unleashed his terrific volleys upon Lott for victory at 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, and Hunter wore Williams down for a match at 2-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-1 before they combined an assortment of cannon ball strokes to take the doubles in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1.

The Misty Pathway

By FLORENCE RIDDELL

INSTALLMENT XXVI
SANCTUARY!

There had been that little affair down by the river last month when a fever-ridden European had just—only just—escaped with his life. Some fourteen of their brothers and sons were languishing in penitence at this very moment for that. Yes, the might of the white people behind this fragile woman was very great. Some twenty pairs of eyes suddenly flickered eagerly as two score of hands went out to urge Elizabeth still further on her rattling way. White blood had won!

Richenda giggled suddenly as the fact came home to her. All those big, brawny savages cowered into obedience before her eight-and-a-half-stone self. "It was really funny."

"Aye, colombo!" they were chanting good-humoredly again. One more rise in the road. She caught her breath as they topped it. This awful country of ups and downs! One more shrieking rattling career of descent. Sometimes it seemed that all four wheels skipped bodily in the air. Yells, smells, prods, she went through the whole gamut of it again, then came a sudden sweeping turn into a yet narrower path, the car within an ace of turning turtle, then a ripping, crunching, tearing grind—All Mutagayo had found the brakes at last, and then a sudden flare of light through an open doorway, a voice:

"And what in the name of all that's wonderful..." and Richenda tumbled out through that forest of outstretched palms full into the amazed arms of Angus Brodie. He bore her through the crush that opened left and right before a series of kicks from his heavy, booted foot. Cold, hunger, misery, and fright had sent her again into merciful oblivion, and Brodie, his kind brows puckered in marveling consternation, carried her straight through the living room of his tiny two-roomed, single-planked bungalow, into the yet smaller apartment which formed his bedroom.

It was long moments before she came to herself again. He was standing by her side, chafing her hands, holding smelling-salts to her nostrils, agitatedly, after the manner of inexperienced males, trying to do half a dozen other things at once to restore her to her senses.

He gave a sigh of immense relief as her eyes slowly opened. She looked so ashen, so fragile, lying there motionless with the disordered waves of her short black hair tumbling round her quiet face.

He raised her, curving his arm behind her head, held brandy to her quivering lips, spoke low, soothing words. Full consciousness returned to her—the fresh agony of those hours before in the remembrance of what had urged her to this man's side and she turned her face suddenly, like a little child, into the crook of his elbow and burst into a passion of tears.

He waited silently until the storm had passed, then asked her quietly:

"What is the trouble, Richenda?"

But so great was her distress and weakness that she could give him no coherent answer.

"Angus... Angus... you told me to come to you if ever I wanted help—so I've come now... You must let me stay here... for a little while—oh, please..."

"Why, of course, you must stay," he soothed. "There's nowhere else you could go at this time of night, and, if there were, I shouldn't let you go in this state."

It was true. His nearest woman neighbor, some four miles across country, was a person whom Brodie strongly disliked. He had no intention of subjecting Richenda to her idle scandal-loving tongue.

"Angus, Angus, if they come, you'll bolt the door and keep them out."

"They? Who?"

"That woman and—"

"Do you mean Mrs. Davenant and Fairways?"

She nodded wordlessly.

"But," he stammered, "Richenda, I thought you cared for Fairways! I thought you were going to marry him soon!"

"I thought so, too," she answered the first part of his speech, "but, Angus, I hate him now! I never want to see him again! Angus, he is bad—bad right through! I—"

She was trembling violently now, white-lipped. The cumulative strain of the last few hours was rising to its crisis. Something of this suddenly became apparent to Brodie.

"Not another word!" he commanded. "You shall tell me all there is to tell in the morning. Lie down quietly while I get rid of that howling mob outside, then we'll have some hot soup ready for you—I shouldn't be surprised to find that you haven't had a meal for hours—and we'll tuck you up all warm and comfy and tomorrow morning you can talk to your heart's content!"

He smiled at her as he paused for a moment in the doorway, then she heard his voice among the importunate crowd outside and presently the noise died in the receding sound of departing bare feet, one last delighted whoop of thanks, and good-night greetings from Ali Mutagayo and his helper as they departed to spend the night in the servants' quarters at the back of the house.

"Kwa heiri," their voices came to her.

"Kwa heiri," Brodie's deeper tones.

Then she heard him moving round the living room. Came the pop of a lighted spirit stove, the swish of pouring liquid, the clink of a spoon and presently he was back at her side with a teaming bowl queening the center of the tray he bore.

While she took the meal, Brodie was moving quietly about the room, laying a pair of gay pajamas over the foot of the bed beside a cozy dressing gown, putting a ewer of hot water on the wash stand.

"More?" he smiled as he surveyed the footless tray.

"No, thanks." A faint pink flush was on her cheeks now. Her eyes were heavy with fatigue.

"Then good night, little girl; sleep well." And, without another word, he was gone.

But sleep did not come easily to Richenda. For an hour she lay with her pink pajamaed arms tossing uneasily above the blankets, a thousand thoughts hurtling through her distraught mind.

And this should have been her wedding night in the tiny camp on the solitary hillside, under the laughing stars—alone with the man she had loved. Her wedding night! And she was here alone in another house. Resting, with no fear now, under the kind protection of a man on whom she had no claim—fled from the one with whom, by the law of the land, she was made one!

She heard Brodie stirring softly in the living room as sleep claimed her.

And Brodie, teeth dug well into the stem of his worn briar, was gazing deep into the glow of the reddening logs in the grateless fireplace, thanking his God that he had been at hand to serve this woman who filled his every waking thought.

BAKER FORESEES DEMOCRAT VICTORY

Presmen's Home, Tenn., August 23. (AP)—Though holding that it is too soon to advance an idea about candidates for the next democratic presidential nomination, Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, declared here today that it is "perfectly easy for the democratic party to succeed in 1928."

"All it needs to do is to deserve to succeed," he said. "It is important for the parties to get their principles straightened out first and then select candidates who advocate these principles," is Mr. Baker's view.

"The problem of international cooperation still is a political problem in this country and will be in the next campaign," he said.

"The revolt among the farmers of the west made it perfectly clear that the agricultural interests of this country are going to have a subsidy for their industry, or else going to stop paying subsidies for other people's industries."

As to disarmament, Mr. Baker asserted every move in that direction through the principle of security. Nations which feel insecure will inevitably arm and under modern conditions no nation can feel secure in a world which isn't cooperating in the maintenance of peace."

The United States, said Mr. Baker, should cooperate with the League of Nations until it is ready to join the international tribunal and then lead in it.

Armed Slayer Sought by Posse In Louisiana

Alexandria, La., August 23.—(AP)—Poses tonight were searching La Salle parish swamps for John Schmidt, 45, who killed his 16-year-old stepdaughter, Miss L. Jolly, and seriously wounded his wife with an ax today in Rhinehardt. Physicians said tonight that Mrs. Schmidt probably will not recover.

Schmidt attacked his wife before striking his stepdaughter. The woman was wounded in several places and the girl's skull was crushed. Authorities were unable to establish a motive for the killing.

Caution was displayed by the men who hunted Schmidt because the slayer was known to be armed with a shotgun.

LINEMAN HURT IN 25-FOOT FALL

D. R. McCune, who lives on Dill avenue, was seriously injured Monday afternoon as the result of a 25-foot fall from a telephone pole on which he was working in making repairs, according to reports from the Davis Fischer sanitarium, where the patient was taken.

McCune was working with a repair corps of linemen on the poles at Sixth street, just across from the Biltmore hotel. Just what caused McCune to fall has not yet been learned.

BURIAL RITES HELD FOR MRS. GARRISON

Funeral services for Mrs. N. H. Garrison, 44, of 74 McLendon avenue, who died Sunday after a brief illness, were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Rev. A. M. Pierce and G. N. Eakes officiated, and the interment was at West View cemetery.

Mrs. Garrison, who was formerly Miss Martha O. Edwards, of Canton, Ga., was the wife of N. H. Garrison, owner of the Dixie Marble and Granite company, of Decatur. Mrs. Garrison was a member of the Decatur Methodist church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, William and Hammond Garrison; three daughters, Misses Mary Frances and Margaret Garrison and Mrs. Frank Russell, all of Atlanta; her father, W. T. Edwards, of Canton; three brothers, Joseph and Scott Edwards, of Glasgow, Mont., and Harold Edwards, and five sisters, Misses Margaret and Bessie Edwards, of Canton; Mrs. Y. K. Moss, of Glasgow, Mont.; Mrs. W. L. Blackwell, of Canton, and Mrs. E. D. Pickett, of Chattanooga.

Tetter Over Hands
Face And Neck
"I was troubled with tetter for some time. It began with little red pimples that broke out all over my hands, face and neck, and itched and burned terribly. Scratching caused eruptions and my face was so sore that I could hardly bear to dry it with a towel. For two or three days I could not put my hands in water or do my work. I could not rest at night on account of the irritation."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed."

RUSH OF VOTERS
CROWDS CITY HALL
FOR REGISTRATION
Last-minute registrants Monday crowded the city clerk's office at the city hall, while workers for candidates in the city-wide primary slated for September 22, passed out cards to those who came to Walter C. Taylor's office to qualify. The books closed officially Monday afternoon, but Mr. Taylor and his corps of clerks remained after 5 o'clock to accommodate late comers.

Although official figures were not available Monday, it is estimated that the total number of qualified voters will pass the 20,000 mark. Officials will begin today to make out lists and the total number of registrants will be available in a few days, Mr. Taylor said.

Books were to have closed August 22, but since that date fell on Sunday, they were kept open Monday. Sons have been in attendance daily.

Winder Bank Seeks To Sever Connection With Parent Concern

Winder, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Since the closing of the Winder branch of the Georgia State bank, efforts have been made by those interested locally in the Winder branch to get it severed from the parent bank and reopened for business by the state banking department.

The Winder branch is only about a year old, has good, clean papers, and splendid deposits, and was closed in the failure of the parent bank. Some of the best business men of Winder were associated with the local branch and say that its affairs are in good shape, with large deposits and no insolvent or worthless papers.

C. O. Maddox, an experienced banker and president of the local branch, has been appointed liquidating agent. The Kiwanis club of Winder has taken an interest and is memorializing the other Kiwanis clubs of the state to assist in getting this branch disconnected from the parent bank.

TWO CHILDREN HURT IN CROSSING MISHAP

Pauline Murphy, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Murphy, 546 Dunn street, West End, and her young guest, Helen Sauter, were knocked down and badly bruised and cut by an automobile Monday morning. According to Call Officers John Wright and Paul Williams, who investigated the accident, the car was driven by H. W. Ligon, 491 East Ontario avenue. The accident occurred in West End at Lee and Gordon streets.

Pauline Murphy suffered cuts on her head, arms and leg. Her injuries were not considered serious and she was dismissed from the hospital. Miss Sauter was more seriously hurt, physicians reporting that she had a compound fracture of one arm and a severe head injury. The children are said to have stepped behind a street car into the path of the machine.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced at Home

Rob Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunions, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even piles are quickly absorbed. Jacobs' Pharmacy Co. sells lots of it.—(adv.)

TO SPEAK IN DECATUR TONIGHT

Lealie J. Steele, candidate for the United States congress from the fifth district, will speak tonight at 8 o'clock at the court house in Decatur at a special woman's meeting. Although the meeting is primarily for women, the general public is invited. Former Congressman William Schley Howard will speak in the interest of Mr. Steele and two well-known women speakers will also have a part on the program.

FOR INFLAMED BREATHING TUBES

Try Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes in the Next Attack.

If you have catarrh you are in danger of losing your hearing. The first symptoms of catarrhal deafness are ringing or buzzing sensations and a stopped-up feeling in the ears. A neglected cold, or an unhealed cold, leads to catarrh, and as everybody knows, catarrh affects the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs and frequently undermines the general health.

The secret of the successful medication of these hidden parts was discovered by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied by smoking a certain combination of medical herbs (containing no tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapor which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with balms, sprays, douches, pills, tablets, liquids and so-called "constitutional treatments." This Remedy is absolutely harmless and is being used successfully by adults and children. You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant beneficial effects.—(adv.)

AUTO PRODUCTION DROPPED IN JULY, SURVEY REVEALS

Washington, August 23.—Automobile production, which dropped slightly in June, showed another decrease in July. There were 355,446 automobiles and trucks manufactured during July, as compared with 389,009 in July last year and 353,652 in June this year, according to figures of the commerce department. Since July 1, 1921, 17 automobile manufacturers have gone out of business, the department said. Some of these represent mergers.

The Moncrief sign means winter protection

Thousands of home owners in Atlanta who operate a Moncrief each winter know from experience that they will be protected from all sorts of weather.

Their heating problems are eliminated with a guaranteed Moncrief in the basement. They are assured of a comfortable warm home in the coldest winters.

Note the construction of the Moncrief Heated home. It is no wonder they are well built. No builder would think of putting such a fine furnace in a poorly constructed house. The two don't go together.

Assure yourself of real comfort during winter seeing that the Moncrief is in the home that you build or buy.

Organized Women Make Plans To Resume Numerous Activities

With the near approach of the first fall days, organized women are beginning to make plans for an active and busy winter. Already informal meetings are being held and the attention of clubwomen is turning to things more serious following a vacation of play and inactivity. Mrs. T. T. Stevens, prominent Atlanta clubwoman, has called a meeting for this morning at 10 o'clock at the new Athletic club of all Atlanta clubwomen who are interested in the Tallulah Falls Industrial school. Plans will be discussed at this meeting for the proposed $30,000 endowment fund of the school. Today's calendar of women's meetings reveals a number of other meetings at which a large number of women will assemble.

Society continues to be interested in the whirl of social and sports activities which has marked the summer season. Among the delightful parties featured today is the luncheon at which Mrs. E. D. Crane and Miss Virginia Pairo will entertain in compliment to Miss Frances Hamman, popular bride-elect. Miss Sarah Magill and Miss Haley Stockton, two other attractive and popular bride-elects, will be honor guests in parties today. The regular Tuesday evening supper-dance on the roof of the Capital City club will be a happy climax to the social doings of the day.

Miss Risk Honors Augusta Visitor.

Miss Virginia Risk entertained Monday at luncheon at the Atlanta Biltmore in compliment to Miss Roberta McDaniel, of Augusta, Ga., the guest of Miss Mary Precher.

Assisting the hostess in entertaining was her mother, Mrs. William Risk, and the guests included Misses McDaniel, Mary Precher, Ida Nevins, Jane Tway, Frances Barnwell, Jane Sharp, Catherine Mion, Martha Fritchard and Marguerite Snelling.

Miss Billings Weds

J. W. Barnett at Clayton.

Of interest to a host of friends in Macon and throughout the state will be the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Lucile Billings and J. W. Barnett, Jr., of Macon, which occurred at Clayton on Sunday, August 22.

Miss Tate Gives House Party.

An event of the past week-end was the house party given by Miss Margaret Tate.

The guests included Miss Boyce Lakey, Miss Helena Callaway, Miss Sarah Law, Miss Pearl Fort, Miss Esther Garrett, all of Atlanta; Miss Vinita Anderson, of Nelson; Mack Wynn, John Baum, John Bell, of Atlanta; Charles Wilkie, Robert Erwin, of Franklin, Tenn.; Lu'e Tate and Steve Tate.

Atlanta Chapter, U. D. C. Activities.

The scholarships awarded through the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., have been of great interest to friends of the organization for many years. This year the committee receiving the scholarships has a splendid list, and with the beginning of school so close at hand interest is quickened.

Among the scholarships received are Washington seminary, Woodberry hall, North Avenue Presbyterian school,

G. M. A., Marist college, Atlanta Southern Business college and others. One or two of these are still available and any desiring information may call Mrs. Stafford Seidell, Ivy 4880.

Bridge parties are given every week by the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C. These parties will last throughout August and will come to a close on Tuesday, September 7, with a bridge-luncheon. Tables for this luncheon will be $2 and a prize will be given at each table, with several prizes drawn for. There will be a somewhat limited number of tables for this, the last party, and any desiring reservations may call Hemlock 1781-J. Mrs. James Bankston and Mrs. J. L. Stephens are in charge.

Table reservations have already been made by Mrs. J. L. Hawk, Mrs. John Quillian, Mrs. I. T. Callaway, Jr., Miss Harriet Noyes, Miss Lignette Smith, Miss Mary Hightower, Miss Mary Gayce, Mrs. J. L. Stephens, Mrs. John Perdue, Mrs. Homer Jessup, Mrs. Stafford Seidell, Mrs. Forrest Kibler, Mrs. Frank Clement, Mrs. Cleve Webb, Mrs. C. N. Davis.

Among reservations made for the party this week are Mrs. W. S. Coleman, Mrs. J. N. Bateman, Mrs. Forrest Kibler, Mrs. J. L. Stephens, Mrs. J. A. Bankston, Mrs. Stafford Seidell, Mrs. W. E. Beckham, Mrs. Moreland Speer.

The parties are given at 10:30 o'clock every Tuesday morning at the U. D. C. chapter house on Juniper street.

Miss Paullin Hostess At Buffet Supper.

An interesting event of Sunday evening was the buffet supper, at which Miss Caroline Paullin entertained at her home on Andrews drive in compliment to Miss Nancy Frederick, who has just returned from Chunn's Cove camp, and her attractive house guests, Miss Rubie Carter Adams, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Miss Betty Miles, of Columbus, Ohio. Covers were placed for Miss Frederick, Miss Miles, Miss Adams, Miss Julia Meador, Miss Susan Broyles, Miss Paullin and a group of young men.

HARDMAN RENEWS MILEAGE CHARGE

Canton, Ga., August 23.—(Special.) Declaring that he favored good roads and that he introduced the first highway bill in Georgia, and renewing the charge that there is only 50 miles of state-aid roads to be added to the state system, Dr. L. G. Hardman, candidate for governor of Georgia, addressed the voters here this morning at 11 o'clock.

"Cherokee county has been led to believe it will receive additional mileage after the election," said Dr. Hardman. "I ask this question, How can John Holder give you something that he does not possess? A leading law firm in Macon has stated the highway department has only 50 miles of roads to allot. Edgar Watkins, of Atlanta, one of the state's most prominent attorneys, a few days ago issued a signed statement stating that, legally, the highway department could not allot more than 50 miles to the present system. Several other counselors of law in the state have placed the same construction on the increased mileage allotment. Don't let the wool be pulled over your eyes by Holder or any other candidate.

George To Deliver Education Speech In Waycross Friday

Waycross, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—United States Senator Walter F. George has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at Piedmont institute in Waycross, Friday, August 27, according to a wire received today from Parks Johnson, Georgia manager for the Sessions Loan and Trust company.

On this date will be held a rally of all those interested in the campaign for a $250,000 fund for the school. The address of the senator will not be political in nature.

Many Atlantans Enjoy the Season At Tate Springs

Tate Springs, Tenn., August 23.—An interesting event of the coming week at Tate Springs will be the horse show to be held Wednesday afternoon at this popular resort. Many entries from nearby cities have been received to compete with the splendid string of Kentucky horses belonging to the Tate Springs stables.

The masquerade ball given at the Tate Springs hotel on Saturday evening was attended by a number of Atlanta people who are spending the month of August here.

A progressive bridge party was given Friday evening in the green lounge of the hotel. The prize winners were Mrs. F. C. McClary, of Chattanooga; C. B. Boswell, of Huntsville, and Richard Bush, of Lexington.

The young people, who are guests at the Tate Springs hotel enjoyed a treasure hunt, Thursday evening in the moonlight. The beautiful country surrounding the hotel afforded many attractive hiding places for the

GEORGE W. MARTIN TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for George W. Martin, 86, former printer for The Constitution, who died at the home of his nephew F. Y. Baker, on Baker road Sunday following an extended illness, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Martin was well-known in the printer's trade in the city and was a charter member of the Atlanta Typographical union.

In addition to his nephew he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Davenport, of Ripley, Tenn., and a niece, Miss Octavia Martin.

WOMEN TO CAMPAIGN ON BEHALF OF SIMS

Mayor Walter A. Sims' campaign for congress from the fifth Georgia district will be actively supported by a group of approximately 200 women of the district, according to a vote taken at a meeting held Monday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel. Mrs. B. M. Boykin presided and acted as hostess and Mrs. Gertrude B. Fuller, former member of the speakers' bureau of the national democratic organization, delivered a short address in which she stressed the importance of voting.

Walter Andrews presented Mr. Sims to the audience. The candidate outlined briefly his platform and stated he will favor and work for funds to rehabilitate the 33,000 farms deserted in Georgia. He will seek a new $500,000 postoffice building for Atlanta and a new federal building for each of the county seats in the fifth district and propose a plan to protect agricultural interests of the state and district.

The women pledged their efforts to Mr. Sims in his race, and he decided to work at the polls and use their automobiles in bringing to the ballot boxes those persons who could not otherwise cast votes.

Mrs. Fuller is from Pennsylvania and Miami, Fla., and is in Atlanta on a short visit. In her address Monday she paid high tribute to this city, and declared she is so thoroughly "sold on Atlanta" that she may decide to make her home here.

DEPUTY SHERIFF ASKS AID IN HUNT FOR MISSING SON

City and county police have been asked to aid in the search for Calvin Tolbert, 16-year-old son of R. T. Tolbert, deputy sheriff of Fulton county, of 279 West Tenth street. Young Tolbert has been missing since Saturday night about 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Tolbert suspects that his son has met with foul play and has posted a reward of $25 for any information concerning the whereabouts of the boy, who was last seen driving his father's touring car.

Young Tolbert, according to his father, came home from work Saturday night about 8 o'clock and gave his weekly earnings to his father. Shortly afterward he wanted to go to a dry goods store on Marietta street to make a small purchase and bring home his mother, who had been shopping.

Mr. Tolbert said that he gave his son a small sum of money and told him to meet his mother with the car and bring her home. Young Tolbert handed his father his coat, drove away, and has not been seen since.

"My son appeared to be in the best of spirits and was well pleased with his work at a tire company on DeKalb avenue and Spring street. When he came in Saturday night he immediately gave me his earnings," Mr. Tolbert said Monday night, "and I fear he has met with foul play and that the car has been stolen."

Young Tolbert is described as being about 5 feet and 8 inches high, weighs about 130 pounds, light gray eyes, brown hair and was wearing a gray cap, white broadcloth shirt and gray pants. Any information concerning his whereabouts should be sent to his parents at 279 West Tenth street, Phone Hemlock 3442-J, or to Fulton county courthouse, care the sheriff's office.

MAIL DELIVERIES GREATLY SPEEDED

Through extension of railway mail service between Atlanta and Ohio cities, which heretofore has been confined to a train of the Southern railway to additional fast trains, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis between Atlanta and Nashville, Tenn., mail service between Atlanta and Chattanooga, and points will be expedited from four to twenty-four hours, it was announced Monday by R. J. Harris, superintendent of the southern states division of the railway postal service.

Under the new plan, congestion caused by the large amount of mail passing through Atlanta from Florida points to the northwest and vice versa will be relieved and deliveries will be made quicker through distribution of mail in transit. At the same time the new service will not require additional expense but the improvement will come through use of new trains and assignment of new clerks now serving on the Southern railway service to the service via the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis trains.

Plans for the service were completed at a conference held by Mr. Harris, S. H. Thach, of Nashville; Fred Rooney, of Birmingham, and E. C. Naylor, chief clerks of their respective divisions.

The postoffice department has authorized, effective September 1, railway postoffice service on Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis trains Nos. 90 and 91, the Dixie Limited, between Atlanta and Nashville. Under this new service, mail originating at Florida and Georgia destined for points west of Indiana will be distributed in transit and delivery will be advanced from 4 to 24 hours over the present service.

The new service connects at Nashville with like service in the same trains operating between Nashville and St. Louis and Chicago. A letter mailed in the afternoon at the car in Atlanta or in the postoffice in time for this train for St. Louis will be distributed in transit and will be delivered by carrier in the business districts of St. Louis the next afternoon. This provides through and unbroken service in fast de luxe trains between Atlanta and Los Angeles. At Chicago it will link in with the night air mail east and west.

Combined with the service on the Southern railway, which was authorized effective June 20 between Jacksonville and Cincinnati, Atlanta will have the fastest service yet enjoyed between this city and Ohio cities and between this city and cities of the north and northwest. North bound, this mail will leave over the Southern railway at 6:40 p. m. and south bound will leave Atlanta at 8 a. m., giving early morning service into the city and late afternoon service out of the city.

Necessity of the establishment of this new service was called to the attention of the department by the railway postal clerks operating between Atlanta and Nashville. It was shown that the service could be operated with practically no additional cost by dividing the present clerical force and distributing space.

The two Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis trains made available for this service leave Atlanta late in the afternoon and heretofore they have not carried mail service. The first leaves Atlanta at 6:40 p. m. and the second leaves at 8:30 p. m.

Prior to the establishment of this service and prior to the additional service over the Southern inaugurated June 20, virtually all mail passing through Atlanta for the north and northwest was handled over one Southern railway train, and a large clerical force was necessary to handle it. Even then much congestion was faced. Under the new plan, the clerical force will be divided, some of the clerks going to the new trains, and by distributing in transit they will expedite deliveries practically a whole day.

LITHONIA CITIZENS TO HEAR CANDIDATES

The three candidates for congress from the fifth district, candidates for the state and county offices, DeKalb county and candidates for state house offices, have been invited to visit Lithonia Wednesday and present their claims to the voters of that place.

The congressional candidates and candidates for DeKalb county offices have accepted the invitation. A large crowd is expected by the people of Lithonia in charge of the meeting.

PLAYGROUND PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED

Definite plans for operating a year-around playground program at Atlanta recreational centers will be laid at a special meeting of the park committee of city council at 10 o'clock this morning, it was announced Monday by Councilman John A. White, chairman. It was first announced that the special session would be at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, but it was changed for the convenience of members of the committee.

The decision to operate the playgrounds 12 months in the year was announced last week by Mr. White, who declared that by a program of strict economy in administration of playground funds for the summer season enough has been saved to permit operation of centrally located play centers in the afternoons until the first of the year, when council will be asked to provide additional moneys.

Despite inclement weather in Atlanta during the summer playground season, which closed officially last Friday, attendance figures reached the highest total ever scored during any similar season and attested to the popularity of the supervised play programs, Miss Margarette Camp, playground director, declared in releasing for the first time the official statistics for the season just closed.

During the 1926 season 181,151 children attended the 23 play centers operated under the direction of the city parks department, headed by L. L. Wallis, superintendent. Last year only 180,074 attended, although Atlanta was hard struck by a continuous drought which lasted almost the entire play season. This year it is estimated by park officials it rained almost 50 per cent of the time.

Adair park stood in first place in the number to attend throughout the 1925-1926 season; Joyner second for the same time, while Grant, which stood third last year, this season tied with Maddox and the James L. Key parks.

Only details of the winter playground season will be discussed at the meeting today, Mr. White said.

Mrs. R. N. Abraham, Native of Atlanta, Is Buried Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Roy N. Abraham, 60, who died Saturday at her home in Dade City, Fla., were held Monday afternoon from the residence of Dr. R. L. Hope, her son-in-law, 1600 Piedmont road. The Rev. J. W. Caldwell, Jr., officiated and interment was in Rock Springs cemetery.

Mrs. Abraham was the wife of Rev. R. N. Abraham, retired minister, who was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Jefferson, Ga. She was a native of Atlanta and was well known throughout the state.

PLAYCRAFTERS SEEK NEW STAGE TALENT

Atlanta's little theater guild, The Playcrafters, held tryouts for those interested in acting and other branches of the stage, Monday night at 8 o'clock, prior to the opening of its third season in its own West End theater.

Fred Stewart, Jr., director of The Playcrafters, wishes to get in touch with all young men and women who would like to develop their talents in any of the stage arts. The schedule for this season, which will include three one-act plays for the regular Saturday night productions and occasional longer plays and novelties, will afford valuable experience for Atlantans with histrionic ability, Mr. Stewart said.

HIGHER THAN WOOLWORTH BUILDING

The Yearly Sales of Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is our highest building.

If all the bottles of Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound sold in one year could be piled end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Mass., to Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have lots of work to do and I am not very strong, but I was getting worse all the time until I began taking Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to lose my appetite completely at certain times, but I feel very well since I began taking this medicine. I think so much of it that I would go before a notary and swear to its merits. You could step into my home any time and you will find a bottle of Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound."

"Peaches" Browning Is Reported Ill; Rest Prescribed

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, August 23.—Mrs. Frances ("Peaches") Heenan Browning, the "Cinderella" bride of Edward Browning, wealthy realtor, was reported ill today in the New Garden Inn, Queens. It was said she had been under the care of Dr. A. B. Depasse, a Forest Hills physician since Friday. She was understood to be undergoing treatment for nervousness. Her condition is not regarded as alarming. Her physician has prescribed rest. The Brownings have been at the inn for the last three weeks.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

By IRENE CASTLE

Copyrighted 1926 by P. O. Beauty Features

Watch the Kind of Soap You use on your face

Use only a true complexion soap—use this way

MODERN beauty methods start now with keeping the pores clean and the skin free of blemish-inviting matter. That means daily cleansing with soap and water. Youth is thus preserved and natural loveliness invited.

But take care the kind of soap you use. Don't think any so-called "good" soap will do. Some soaps, excellent for many purposes, may prove unfitted for your skin. A good complexion is too priceless for experiment.

That is why most authorities urge Palmolive: a soap made of rare cosmetic oils, a soap made by experts in beauty solely for ONE purpose, to safeguard your complexion. Before its day, women were told "use no soap on your face." Soaps then were judged too harsh.

Just follow this simple rule in skin care for one week. Note the improvement that comes. It is Nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

Try this one week... Note the changes in your skin

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be

Dysard-Standridge Wedding Is Lovely Event of Late Summer

One of the loveliest of the late summer weddings was that of Miss Nell Dysard and Robert W. Standridge, which was solemnized at 6 o'clock Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hicks, close friends of the bride, on Sixth avenue.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with quantities of brightly tinted garden flowers. An improvised altar was arranged in the living room of palms, ferns and fragrant white roses arranged in tall floor standards. Cathedral tapers in tall silver candelabra flanked either side of the altar.

Proceeding the ceremony, a program of appropriate nuptial music was rendered. Miss Martha McConnell sang "I Love You Truly," followed by a violin solo, "At Dawn," by Mrs. J. Henshaw. Miss Ruby Mae Smith presided at the piano and rendered "To a Wild Rose" during the ceremony. The marriage service was read by the Rev. Marvin Williams, pastor of Wesley Memorial church.

The bride entered the living room through the music room. Miss Louise South, bridesmaid, coming first with George Wooten, groomsmen. They were followed by the other bridesmaid, Miss Leota Standridge, sister of the groom, and Gildard Phillips, groomsmen.

The bridesmaids' gowns were similar bouffant models of georgette crepe, the full skirts having a finish of narrow ruffles pleated in silver. Miss South was becomingly gowned in blue and Miss Standridge wore pink, their bouquets being fashioned alike of roses, with shades of pink predominating.

Mrs. Jesse S. Hall, a recent bride, formerly Miss Lulu Ingram, acted as matron of honor, entering alone and wearing a beaded, georgette gown of pale yellow. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of pink roses.

The bride entered with the maid of honor, Miss Evelyn Hicks, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, John Sharpley. Miss Hicks was a lovely figure wearing a gown of orchid-shaded chiffon combined with lace and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

The lovely bride formed a charming picture in her wedding gown of soft white satin, elaborately beaded in crystals and seed pearls. The sleeveless bodice was fashioned as a basque with a tracery of pearls and crystals at the neck-line. The full skirt was finished with a deep band of hand-sewn cream lace. Her filmy veil of tulle was attached to her hair with a half circle of orange blossoms. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of bride's roses and a spray of the valley.

Miss Elizabeth Abbott kept the bride's book. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. Standridge and his bride left for a wedding journey to Wrightsville Beach, after which they will make their home in Atlanta.

Mrs. William Miller Gives Birthday Party.

Mrs. William Miller, of Fort McPherson, entertained 28 little folks Monday afternoon in honor of her little daughter, Adelaide, who celebrated her seventh birthday.

The dining room was decorated in garden flowers, the color scheme being pink and white. In the center of the table was a beautiful cake, ornamented in pink and white roses and lighted with seven burning tapers.

Mrs. Miller was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. J. B. Redmond.

Mrs. Stevens Calls Meeting Today

Mrs. T. T. Stevens, general chairman of the Paeffle Fenton Otley $30,000 endowment fund for Tallulah Falls Industrial school, called a meeting at 10 o'clock this morning at the new Atlanta Athletic club on Carnegie way, when friends of the school and of Mrs. John K. Otley are invited to meet to discuss plans for securing the service tribute and to voice approval of the movement.

Mrs. Jesse S. Hall, a recent bride, formerly Miss Lulu Ingram, acted as matron of honor, entering alone and wearing a beaded, georgette gown of pale yellow. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Yarbrough Weds William A. Dukes, Jr., At Home Ceremony

A beautiful home wedding of Sunday afternoon was that of Miss Martha Yarbrough and William Asbury Dukes, Jr., which took place at the home of the bride, 45 Albermarle avenue. Dr. J. W. Quillian, of Druid Hills Methodist church, officiated.

The house was artistically decorated throughout with baskets of roses alternating pink and white. The walls were festooned with southern smilax.

The altar was improvised of palms and white gladioli. On either side of the altar cathedral candelabra held softly-burning tapers. Immediately preceding the ceremony Mrs. Cleve Webb sang "Because" and "A Sweeter Story Still." Miss Zella Webb at the piano played the march from "Loch Lomond" as a processional and "Simple Aven" during the ceremony.

The bridesmaids entered first. Miss Roberta Quillian wearing pink and Miss Harriet Furse wearing blue georgette. They carried arm bouquets of pink roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. F. R. Yarbrough, entered next; her gown was of lavender georgette made bouffant style. She carried pink roses.

Miss Evelyn Yarbrough, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore yellow chiffon over yellow georgette, fashioned with lace godets. Little Doris and Elise Yarbrough, flower girls, wore hand-made dresses of peach georgette. They scattered roses in the path of the bride, who entered next with her father, F. R. Yarbrough. Her gown was of peacock blue satin crepe embroidered elaborately in rose and beige. Her hat was a fall model of beige, embroidered in rose and faced with same shade. Her bouquet was of bride's roses showered with valley lilies. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Donald Livingston.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. Miss Frances Craighead kept the bride's book. Mrs. Yarbrough was assisted in entertaining by the mother of the groom, Mrs. W. A. Dukes, of Branchville, S. C. Mrs. Cleve Webb and Mrs. J. S. Davis, of West Point, Ga., aunts of the bride.

Mrs. Davis wore black beaded georgette. Mrs. Dukes' gown was of rose satin-back crepe embroidered in white and Mrs. Webb wore black crepe beaded in rhinestones. The bride and groom left for a two weeks motor trip through the Carolinas.

HUSTON THOMPSON HAS OPERATION

Denver, August 23.—(AP)—Huston Thompson, chairman of the federal trade commission, today underwent an operation to set a fractured collar bone. He was hurt in an automobile accident last Friday.

After a rainless Monday, for which everyone was more than thankful, the United States weather bureau announced that it was all off, and that there would be thunderstorms today—as usual.

Temperatures will cling around a mark which is described as normal, and which ranges from a minimum of 70 to a maximum of 85 degrees.

Atlanta missed its customary afternoon rain Sunday, and sweltered as a result when the mercury climbed to $1. Nearby places, including Stone Mountain, Decatur, and Marietta, had cooling rains Sunday.
